

Concussion Bombs Due For Viets

Would Be Part Of 'Jungle Gym'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force was reported today to have developed a highly secret antiguerrilla program for Communist-threatened South Viet Nam under the code name of "Jungle Gym."

Few details are known, but sources said one part of the plan was to use transport planes to rain concussion bombs on the Communist-infested South Vietnamese jungle.

Would Demoralize Troops
The aim would be to burst the eardrums of Communist guerrillas, crippling them for further combat and demoralizing those who were not injured. Some probably would be killed by fragments, but that would not be the main purpose.

A concussion bomb relies for its effect on the blast of its detonation rather than the fragmentation of its case.

The planes would be loaded with hundreds of the charges on special racks, the sources said. Roaring over areas known to be infested with the Communists, the planes would pattern-bomb the jungles in which the Red Viet Cong operates.

It was not known whether these missions would be flown by American pilots alone, or accompanied by South Vietnamese fliers.

Until now, the stated mission of the U.S. Air Force in South Viet Nam has been to instruct native pilots in the use of American-supplied planes and other equipment. Sometimes this has carried the American pilots into combat situations.

Hopewell Agent To Handle Three Ulster Stations

ALBANY — The Public Service Commission today authorized New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad to place its carload-only freight stations at Clintondale, Modena and Highland, all in Ulster County, under jurisdiction of its agent at Hopewell Junction, Dutchess County.

The Clintondale station had been operated as an agency station, supervising operations at the Modena and Highland non-agency stations, until it was destroyed by fire last year. Since then, all business at the three points has been handled through Hopewell Junction.

In seeking permission to discontinue resident agency service at Clintondale, the railroad contended that the change would result in no serious inconvenience to its patrons. It also said the move would enable it to save about $6,200 annually in addition to the cost of building a new station at Clintondale to replace the one destroyed by fire.

Upon a determination that area shippers have no objection to the railroad's proposal, Examiner Jacob L. Rothstein concludes, in a report to the Commission, that "public convenience and necessity no longer requires the retention of Clintondale as an agency carload-only station."

Council Is Named For 18-Drink Study

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The chairman of a joint legislative committee announced today the appointment of a nine-member advisory council to assist in the study of the state's 18-year minimum drinking age.

Sen. John J. Marchi, R-Statens Island, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee to Study the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law, said the council would help his committee by providing the wide experience of its members in dealing with the problems of youth.

"The question of whether or not to raise the minimum drinking age in New York State is a complex one, with deep-rooted sociological, moral and legal aspects," Marchi said. "It is proper and desirable that the committee have the benefit of the widest possible spectrum of community wisdom and experience in determining its action in this controversial area."

New Jersey and other neighboring states have urged New York State to raise its minimum drinking age to 21 to conform with regulations in their respective states.

Governor Signs Bill

1965 Model Cars Must Have Front Seat Belts

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—All new automobiles registered in New York State beginning with the 1965 model year must have two sets of seat belts in the front seat.

Gov. Rockefeller, announcing he had signed a bill mandating the installations, said today the new requirement would "provide a large segment of our motoring public with this life-saving device."

Rockefeller's office said it was assumed the belts would be installed by auto manufacturers or provided by dealers selling the new cars but the final responsibility would rest with the car owner.

Spokesman for the automobile manufacturing industry indicated, when it became apparent New York was going to establish the regulation, that seat belts would be provided as standard equipment on all vehicles beginning with the 1965 year.

But there was no immediate official comment from the industry on the governor's action.

The governor also signed a bill authorizing the state motor vehicle commissioner to set standards for seat belts which they are to be sold legally in New York State.

The standards will include provisions that the belts be able to withstand a force of 4,000 pounds for three seconds. Buckles must be capable of being unfastened with a force of 45 pounds or less after being subjected to the 4,000-pound pressure.

Can Set Standards
In another development on highway safety, New York became the first state to approve a plan for establishing an interstate agency to conduct research into motor-vehicle equipment and suggest safety improvements.

The governor signed a bill giving state approval to the Vehicle Equipment Safety Compact. When five more states approve it, an interstate commission will be established automatically.

The seat-belt legislation represents a major but not complete victory for the Joint Legislative Committee on Motor Vehicles and Traffic Safety. Under its chairman, Sen. Edward J. Speno, R-Nassau, the committee has been urging a law that would require belts for all occupants of a passenger vehicle.

Another Matter
The committee has cited studies indicating that the incidence of death and serious injuries in highway crashes can be reduced by up to 25 per cent if seat belts are used.

Last year, the committee won agreement from the automobile industry to build attachment points for seat belts into all vehicles.

beginning with the 1963 model year.

These points are threaded holes in the floor of the car. Bolts holding the seat belts may be screwed into the holes.

If not used for belts, the holes may be covered.

Presumably, automobile manufacturers could issue belts to their dealers within New York State and these could be installed to meet the requirements of the new law.

Water Supply Is Up to Survey in Saugerties Area

An application for permission to add 40 new homes in Barclay Heights to Glasco Water District was denied Thursday night by Saugerties Village Water Board, until a water survey by the village engineer, Morrell Vrooman, is completed.

The decision was reserved at a combined meeting of Saugerties Village Board, the Water Board and Town of Saugerties officials.

Ask for Extension
Attorney Morris Rosenblum, representing Austin Simmons, developer of Simmons Park, requested permission to extend the water lines of Glasco Water District to include 40 new homes now in the process of construction on the westerly portion of the Simmons property.

Attending the lengthy discussion was Louis P. Francello, village attorney; Frank Naccarato, water board board president; Dr. Irving Dreishpoon, member of the water board; Harry Edinger, director of environmental sanitation of Ulster County Health Department; Frank Greco, town councilman; Augustus Brinnier and Christos Larios of Brinnier and Larios, consulting engineers of the Town of Saugerties, and members of the Village Board of Trustees.

The Water Board reported they informed the Town Board in March 1961 that the village water system could not supply additional homes in the Glasco Water District until a further survey of the supply is made by their engineers, Morrell Vrooman. The letter stated that the village can only sell its surplus water to the Glasco District.

Mayor George P. Holmes said the village must keep a reserve for future expansion in the village and must also have a supply for Malden if and when that hamlet decides to hook on to the village mains, Francello said the provision for Malden was noted in the original contract between the village and Glasco Water District signed in 1926.

Francello said that in order to protect the village reserve, Glasco would be allotted a specific amount of water.

Each $100 Pledge To Hospital Will Really Mean $150

Each $100 pledged now to the Kingston Hospital Building Fund could be worth as much as $150 toward actual construction as a result of action that has been taken by the hospital's board of trustees.

Richard M. Kalish, president, has reported that the Board has submitted its letter of intent and detailed plans to apply for federal aid under the Hill-Burton Act, which provides for meeting up to one-third the cost of approved projects.

Area Has High Priority
Favorable action on the Kingston Hospital's application is anticipated, Kalish noted, because of the high priority allocated to Ulster County on the basis of need for additional beds.

Total estimated cost of $1,300,000 for constructing and equipping the proposed five-level wing would be met by the $900,000 now being raised in the hospital's building fund campaign, augmented by Hill-Burton Aid. In effect, Kalish pointed out, each $100 pledged to the drive now could "buy" $150 worth of construction.

The Hill-Burton Federal Aid is disbursed by the State through the Hospital Review and Planning Commission of the State Health Department.

Each year, statistics on hospital bed capacity are compared with the state's needs.

ST. REMY RESIDENCE LEVELED—Volunteer firemen wet down charred ruins of a two-story frame residence on Route 213 at St. Remy which burned to the ground Thursday afternoon despite the efforts of three volunteer fire companies. The owner of the home, Daniel Warhol was working outdoors when the fire broke out and the alarm was called in by a neighbor, according to Chief Alberth Fleischer of St. Remy Fire Company. In addition to St. Remy, Rifton and Tilton Fire Companies responded with tank trucks. Tankers relayed to a nearby stream for refilling, the chief said. The cause was undetermined at Freeman press time. (Freeman photo)

U.S. Fires Second of Bomb Tests

Device Is Dropped Again From Plane

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States today fired the second shot of its planned series of nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

Like the first on Wednesday, it was a detonation of a device dropped from an airplane in the vicinity of Christmas Island in the Pacific.

An announcement from the Atomic Energy Commission said the shot was touched off about 11 a.m., EST, and the detonation was in the intermediate yield range.

This description is used for a shot with a force greater than the explosive force of 20,000 tons of TNT but less than one million tons of TNT.

No details were given. The AEC announcement merely said: "A nuclear test detonation took place at about 11 a.m. EST today in the vicinity of Christmas Island. The detonation was in the intermediate yield range. The device was dropped from an air plane. The test was part of Operation Dominic now under way in the Pacific."

Announcement of the second detonation in the Pacific came as Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin scheduled an afternoon meeting on Berlin in spite of the angry dispute between Moscow and Washington over resumption of the nuclear tests.

Soviet readiness to continue the search for a Berlin settlement plus Soviet failure to walk out of the Geneva disarmament conference was interpreted here as evidence that Premier Khrushchev has decided to limit Russian reaction to the new U.S. tests to a propaganda fight. U.S. officials found this encouraging for the future course of U.S.-Soviet relations.

One of the limiting factors in Khrushchev's decision, it was said, may also be his own plans, assumed here, for the Soviet Union to hold new nuclear tests in the near future.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said Thursday night the U.S. decision to test again in the atmosphere meant the arms race had been resumed.

In an address to a dinner of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, Macmillan said: "We must not abandon our efforts in this or any other sphere where we can find the possibility of some agreement between East and West to their mutual advantage and to that of the whole world."

In Moscow the Soviet Union's press, radio and television continued to pour out a steady stream of strident denunciation of America's nuclear test in the Pacific. In London 2,000 anti-bomb demonstrators massed at the U.S. embassy to protest the test. Police arrested 192 sit-down strikers.

The Rusk-Dobrynin meeting was set for mid-afternoon. It will be the third such session within a two-week period—and the last for about two weeks.

Rusk is scheduled to leave Sunday for Allied consultations abroad, including a NATO foreign ministers' meeting in Athens. His trip also will take him to London, Australia and New Zealand.

The NATO gathering will give Rusk an opportunity to make a personal report to British, French and West German allies who along with the United States have a primary interest in the exploratory talks with Russia on the future of Berlin.

33,000 Less, Pentagon Order

Many Governors Balk Over Cutting Guard

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some of the nation's governors are up in arms over an Army plan for cutting out 475 of the states' National Guard units.

A barrage of telephone calls, telegrams and statements hit the Pentagon after the Army's National Guard Bureau Wednesday sent out the plan to all 50 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico.

Proposal, Not Order
One of the many objectors, Iowa's Gov. Norman Erbe, interpreted the action as an order and said he would not comply.

Caught in the middle was Maj. Gen. Donald W. McGowan, chief of the National Guard Bureau, who was carrying out Pentagon orders to reduce the Guard by about 33,000.

McGowan said the plan was a proposal, not an order, and he stressed that law requires approval by a governor before a unit in his state may be altered or disbanded.

Many of the governors said flatly they would refuse to accept. Govs. John M. Dalton of Missouri and John Anderson of Kansas said they would refuse to release any Guard units.

In Albany, N.Y., Maj. Gen. Almerin C. O'Hara, commanding general of the state's National Guard, said New York would draw up a plan to comply with the federal objectives. But he called the Army plan "ill-advised" because it has not been given careful consideration from the standpoint of the states.

The program of cut-backs is part of a general reorganization of the Army Reserve and Guard in which eight infantry divisions will be broken up in brigades and six others retooled into ready-to-go outfits.

The aim, said a Guard spokesman, is to apply an average 10 per cent reduction in the Guard's strength.

No Criminal Intent in Deaths Of Infants; Verdict Withheld

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP)—A Broome County coroner withheld a verdict after a detective lieutenant testified at an inquest there was no evidence of criminal intent in the deaths of six infants fed a salt-filled formula at Binghamton General Hospital.

Dr. Vincent Maddi adjourned the hearing Thursday until a later, unspecified date.

Det. Lt. John V. Gillen testified that an investigation had revealed no evidence of any crime in the deaths of the infants last month. He said he believed the deaths to be accidental.

Salt was found in a formula-room canister that was labeled "Sugar." It had been filled, apparently by mistake, from one of two identical metal cans, one containing salt and the other sugar, that stood side-by-side in the hospital's main kitchen.

Mrs. Lillie Mae Colvin, the licensed practical nurse who filled the formula-room cans, remained composed as she testified for more than an hour. She said she had not been distracted in any way when she went to the kitchen for sugar.

Would Get 231 Cars Off Street

North Front Sites To Help Business

After considering several proposals for parking lot sites in the uptown urban renewal project area, the Citizens Executive Advisory Committee for Urban Renewal Friday night recommended acquisition and construction of two lots on North Front Street which will provide off-street parking spaces for 231 cars at an estimated cost of $483,117, chairman Howard A. Lewis announced today.

The two lots, recommended originally by the Uptown Economic Sub-committee, headed by George Svirsky, would provide off-street parking facilities on both sides of North Front Street, revitalize both ends of the street, and give immediate relief to that part of the uptown business district which most needs it, Lewis explained.

Options Reported
Options have been taken on several North Front Street properties in the City, Lewis said, the Executive Advisory Committee concluded that it would be false economy to select sites that would not meet the immediate and future needs of the area, especially since the lots are to be financed on a self-liquidating basis, and since the project will produce seven matching dollars in federal and state aid for every dollar spent by the city.

Mr. Lewis noted that the plans considered included sites recommended by Raymond and May, the city's planning consultants, plans prepared by the Kingston engineering firm of Brinnier and Larios for the previous administration of Mayor Edwin F. Radel, and plans prepared by Brinnier and Larios (Continued on Page 6, Col. 4)

University Board Approves College For Sullivan Co.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A community college for Sullivan County has the approval of the State University Board of Trustees.

The board's action Thursday is subject to final approval of the Board of Regents and Gov. Rockefeller before the University's master construction plan can be amended.

The Sullivan County Board of Supervisors had applied to the trustees for permission to establish such a school.

The state and the local sponsor, such as a board of supervisors, each pay half of the cost of construction of a two-year community college and one-third of the operating cost. The other one-third of operating expenses is provided from tuition paid by students.

Kiwanians View Film Comparing Two Kingstons

A film comparing Kingston, Canada, with Kingston, New York, produced by the Canadian Government and "starring" W. L. "Dick" Rider, local heating engineer, was shown at the Kiwanis Club meeting Thursday.

The occasion of the showing of the film was the observance of United States-Canada Goodwill Week, with Harry Rigby Jr. in charge of the program.

For the past eight years the Kiwanis Clubs of Kingston, Canada and Kingston, New York have interchanged visits each year, and this established practice was instrumental in the decision of the Canadian government to produce the film.

In the final analysis, according to the film, the two Kingstons have much in common. Population-wise they are about the same, their past histories are somewhat parallel, the amount of industry is similar, and the type of people living in the two cities are of little difference. Even the thinking of the respective citizens parallels, according to the film version, which presented interviews with people in both cities, locally offering Harry Rigby Jr., Bernard Feeney Sr. and others.

Rider and his wife, were commentators for the local version, comparing costs of living, wages, taxes, and community services, with people from across the border.

Hubert Hoderath of the local Kiwanis Club announced that the visiting between the two Kingstons groups would continue, with the 1962 visit to be held in Canada on August 11.

The film was shown to the Kingston Kiwanis through the cooperation of the Canadian Consulate office in New York City.

Liz, Dick Unhurt In Auto Crash

ROME (AP)—Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton narrowly escaped injury in a pre-dawn auto accident today, and several hours later the Welsh actor appeared with his wife, Sybil, at Rome's airport.

Burton and his wife drove to the airport to meet their daughter, Katy, 4, who flew in from London. Before their appearance at the field there had been a series of reports and denials of Mrs. Burton's presence in Rome. One spokesman for Burton said Mrs. Burton had been here since Sunday.

That was the day Burton and Miss Taylor were on an Easter holiday at Porto Santo Stefano, about 100 miles north of Rome. They were reported to have had a violent quarrel there on Monday and Miss Taylor returned to Rome alone.

The auto accident today was the first time Miss Taylor and Burton are known to have been together since their quarrel. The car in which they were riding blew a tire and went into a ditch near their villas.

Burton and Miss Taylor walked away from the accident to Miss Taylor's villa. Roughly 10 hours later he was seen coming out of his own villa with his wife and they drove to the air field.

Burton, 36, who plays Mark Antony to Miss Taylor's Cleopatra in a 20th Century Fox film now shooting, has been her almost constant companion since her marriage to singer Eddie Fisher went on the rocks earlier this month.

Jailed and Fined

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Joseph J. Talerio, 57, of Utica, a restaurant-owner, must serve a year in jail and pay a fine of $10,000 for willful failure to pay cabaret taxes on $247,000 and for failure to file income tax returns.

Judge Stephen W. Brennan of Federal District Court sentenced Talerio Thursday but said the defendant need not begin the jail term until May 28, when he is to report to the U.S. marshal in Utica by noon.

He had pleaded guilty. State investigators closed a Talerio restaurant in 1960 for two years as a result of a probe of vice in Utica.

Members of the recently appointed Town of Hyde Park Industrial Committee have visited four tentative industrial sites in the township, according to Town Supervisor William Schryver.

The town supervisor said committee members plan to communicate with owners of properties in the town to determine if they are interested in selling land to some industry.

Joint Launches May Spur U.S., Soviet Combine

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The successful launchings of a U.S.-British satellite and an American-Japanese probe have given rise to hopes the United States and Russia will eventually combine their great resources for an all-out assault on space.

Such a hope was voiced by space officials assembled here for the launchings.

An American Thor-Delta rocket Thursday blasted a packet of British experiments into orbit as the world's first international satellite. Its purpose is to study the ionosphere and cosmic radiation.

Earlier, at Wallops Island, Va., a U.S. Nike-Cajon sounding rocket boosted a small bundle of Japanese instruments on a brief 75-mile-high trip to take readings in the upper atmosphere.

The launchings occurred during a day of crowded space activity. Other developments:

1. The U.S. Ranger 4 spacecraft crash-landed on the dark side of the moon after a 64-hour, 231,486-mile journey that started Monday at Cape Canaveral. Although Ranger 4 failed to carry out a number of scientific experiments because of a faulty electronic device, officials said it demonstrated the United States had the guidance capability to send a vehicle to the moon.

2. Space scientists disclosed plans to send a similar rocket toward Venus this summer. It's called Mariner and will be boosted by the same Agena B combination that aimed Ranger.

3. The Russians announced the launching of their fourth scientific satellite in six weeks. The Soviets said the vehicle, Cosmos 4, carried radiation-measuring and other scientific gear. There was some speculation the recent wave of Russian satellites have been sent up to gather data on America's series of nuclear tests in the Pacific.

Two Secret Shots 4. Two secret satellites were launched by the Air Force at Point Arguello, Calif. One employed a Blue Scout booster, the other an Atlas-Agena B, which has been used primarily for Midas and Samos spy satellites. Sources at Cape Canaveral, where Blue Scouts also are launched, indicated the Blue Scout failed to place its payload in orbit. The Defense Department recently decided to withhold all information on military space launchings.

5. It was learned that at a session today of the International Association of Geodesy in Washington, some further details were to be made public on the proposed Anna satellite, which would involve use of a flashing light for visually observing earth satellites.

Burton and Miss Taylor walked away from the accident to Miss Taylor's villa. Roughly 10 hours later he was seen coming out of his own villa with his wife and they drove to the air field.

Burton, 36, who plays Mark Antony to Miss Taylor's Cleopatra in a 20th Century Fox film now shooting, has been her almost constant companion since her marriage to singer Eddie Fisher went on the rocks earlier this month.

Dutchess Master Plan for Water Ready in July

A master plan for the proposed Dutchess County Water District should be completed by July, according to Herbert L. Kaufman, project manager of a consulting firm to that county's water agency.

Kaufman said the Towns of Hyde Park, Red Hook, Poughkeepsie, Wappinger, East Fishkill, LaGrange, Fishkill and Pleasant Valley and the City of Poughkeepsie and Villages of Fishkill and Tivoli have expressed desire to be included in the planned water district.

The project manager said the City of Beacon and Village and Town of Rhinebeck and Village of Red Hook had not indicated they were interested in being included in the project.

The contract went to the Fletcher - McCarthy Construction Co. Inc., of Utica, the lowest bidder.

The new station will be used by the bureaus of agriculture and immigration and customs.

Merger Completed Of 2 Companies In Fuel Business

One of Kingston's oldest fuel business has notified its customers of a change in operation.

On June first Phelan & Cahill, Inc., located at 325 South Wall Street, will merge its fuel oil business with Esso. The business office will be at the Esso plant at 207 East Strand.

The retail coal business will continue at 325 South Wall Street.

Established over a half-century ago by the late James A. Phelan, who also conducted a grocery store at 607 Broadway at the site of the present Community Theatre, the coal business was originally operated by Mr. Phelan from Winchell Avenue and South Wall Street, with coal yards on South Wall Street.

Cahill Joins Firm

Shortly after the close of World War I, James R. Cahill, who had been a bookkeeper for Mr. Phelan when he operated the coal business, joined the firm and it became known as Phelan & Cahill, Inc. The business continued to operate under that corporation and with the advent of oil for domestic heating, the company entered the fuel oil business acquiring large storage tanks on East Strand.

As the business in fuel oil grew, Phelan & Cahill increased storage capacity until presently storage capacity was 2,000,000 gallon storage. That storage is being leased to Esso with the consolidation of the fuel oil business in June.

It was after World War I, that the office for the coal company was moved from Winchell Avenue to South Wall Street. During the early days when James A. Phelan conducted the business, it was operated from the grocery store on Broadway.

During the time Phelan & Cahill operated the coal and fuel oil business they built up a large trade and became noted for prompt service.

After long consideration the company has now decided to merge its fuel oil business with Esso which will give them the benefit of all of the facilities of Esso for fuel oil delivery, and the latest scientific service in fuel burner service and equipment.

In announcing the merger, Vincent M. Cahill in a letter to customers states that "the business will continue to operate from Kingston with only one slight change, the business office will be located at the Esso plant, 207 East Strand." All existing agreements on equipment, service and otherwise will be honored as before, Mr. Cahill said.

Mr. Cahill will remain practically intact under the merger. James Edward Phelan, president of Phelan & Cahill, will still be associated with the operation and his son-in-law, Ted Wood, will be active in the same capacity in which he has served for the past three years.

Crescino Is Hurt In Police Cycle Collision Today

Patrolman John Crescino, riding a police department motorcycle, was injured in a collision late this morning on Broadway near Hoffman Street.

A police headquarters report on the mishap said the officer was headed down Broadway when the cycle and a car headed out of the parking lot near the Municipal Auditorium collided. Barbara Ann Schatzel, 22, of 160 Harwich Street, was listed as the driver of the car. The mishap occurred, police said, after the motorcycle had passed a line of cars just before noon.

Best available information early this afternoon indicated that Officer Crescino had suffered hip and back injuries. He was taken to Benedictine Hospital in a Fatum ambulance.

LBJ Denies Danger

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson denies that a plane mishap Thursday at a Dallas, Tex., airport endangered him and his wife, Lady Bird.

A twin-engine military T29 Sabreliner, carrying the Johnsons and crew, veered off a runway while taxiing for a takeoff and slipped into mud.

First reports said the plane's landing gear had collapsed, but Love Field officials later said no. After the Johnsons arrived here aboard a commercial airliner, the Vice President told newsmen at Friendship International Airport.

"There was nothing to it. The plane was taxiing about three miles an hour and the pilot decided to test the brakes."

Yeaza to Ride Ridan in Derby

NEW YORK (AP) — Manuel Yeaza, Panamanian jockey, decided today he will ride Ridan in the Kentucky Derby at Louisville on May 5, giving up the mount on Donut King, who will be piloted by John L. Rotz.

The decision was disclosed by Lenny Goodman, agent for Rotz, Rotz, 27, from Warrensburg, Ill., rode Globemaster in the 1961 derby and finished sixth.

Yeaza was up on Ridan Thursday when that colt won the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland. The Panamanian had won the Florida Derby aboard Ridan several weeks ago. He also has been riding Donut King, a California colt, and finished third in last Saturday's Wood Memorial on Donut King.

3 in Highland Barred For B of E Session

A Highland man said Thursday that he and two other residents of Highland Central School District were barred from a Board of Education conference Wednesday night.

George Muller, Clearwater Road, Highland, identified the other residents as Frank Roberto, Chapel Hill Road, and Joseph Constantino, Bellevue Road, Highland.

Muller was quoted as saying a consultant attended the Wednesday night session. "The consultant is being paid out of our tax dollars," Muller was quoted, "but we the taxpayers can't hear what we're paying for. The question is why?"

Muller reportedly said the meeting of the board was held at Highland High School behind locked doors.

Pavilion of Light Prisms to House Electric Exhibit

A newly designed "pavilion of light prisms" will house the investor-owned electric utility industry's exhibit at the 1964-1965 New York World's Fair, it was announced today by Ernest R. Acker, president of Electric Power and Light Exhibit, Inc., the corporation set up to administer the electric companies' participation in the Fair.

Acker is also chairman of the Board of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation. "Vertically staggered triangular metal prisms will rise to a height of 80 feet, forming an asymmetrical structure resembling a crystal palace of ever-changing light and color or a sort of Gothic Cathedral of Light," Acker said.

Crowning the pavilion will be three vertical pylons rising an additional 60 feet. The pylons will frame a vertical shaft of brilliant light and power rising from a central core on the ground level of the structure.

This can be viewed from a moving ramp carrying visitors across a reflecting pool to the pavilion entrance. The interior walls of the vertical prisms are designed to serve directly as a background for the exhibit, becoming curtains of varicolored light. Visitors will be carried through the exhibit chambers on an elevated revolving ring, and will exit by a spiral ramp, leading them past the core of the tower of light.

"With the prisms appearing to change color by day and the extending effect of the tower of light high above the fair at night, the new pavilion will present a dramatic picture," Acker said. The design was created by Robinson-Stern Associates, Inc., who are also the designers of the theme exhibit for the Seattle Century 21 World's Fair which opened April 21. The structural engineering, based on the principles of the geodesic system invented by Buckminster Fuller, will be developed by Synergetics, Inc., the firm which engineered the Seattle exhibit.

Police Go Back To Lanterns as Circuit Shorts

Electric service at midtown was interrupted shortly after midnight by a short circuit in an underground cable at Broadway and Andrew Street.

Light and other service was off for some four hours in area public buildings, including the City Hall, Kerosene lamps were used at Kingston Hospital. Service at Kingston Hospital was interrupted for only a short time. An auxiliary circuit was placed in service there.

Local police arranged with state police to have its teletype service duplicated.

An official of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp. said service was interrupted at the high school, tumor clinic, and other buildings in the area.

Boy, 14, Taken Ill

John Walliszewski, 14, of 30½ Snyder Avenue, police said was apparently taken suddenly ill upon Thursday and was conveyed by Fatum ambulance to Kingston Hospital where his condition was reported as satisfactory today. Book Controversy Flourishes

Educator Refuses To Oust 'Cancer'

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The furor over Henry Miller's controversial novel, "Tropic of Cancer," has hit Rochester with a flourish.

Monroe County Dist. Atty. John J. Conway Jr. said Thursday that unless the book were removed forthwith from shelves in book outlets and university and public libraries, violators of the ban would face prosecution.

Following Conway's statement, made in Florida, where he is vacationing, libraries and book dealers were telephoned by the district attorney's office and requested to prohibit circulation of the book.

Up to Courts

The book dealers said they would comply with the request, but provost McCrea Hazlett of the University of Rochester said "The university would not remove Miller's 'Tropic of Cancer' from its shelves unless it is finally determined by the courts that this book is inappropriate for anyone to read."

The faculty at the university was up in arms against the district attorney's directive. One professor said it might lead to his resignation.

The public library's action on the directive must await a decision by its board of trustees, but immediate compliance would be impossible, since all 16 of the library's copies of the book are currently in circulation.

The county grand jury Thursday indicted 2 men on 75 counts charging them with possession of obscene literature and intent to sell it. Cited in the indictment was, among other publications, "Tropic of Cancer."

One Locked In Safe

Three other New York State cities—Syracuse, Ogdensburg and Corning—already have become embroiled in campaigns during the last two months to ban the sale or circulation of the book.

Three bookstore employees in Syracuse have been arrested on a charge for selling obscene literature ("Tropic of Cancer"), and in Ogdensburg, the library's sole copy of it is locked in a safe.

The Corning Library Board decided to keep the book on its shelf unless it was declared obscene by a court.

To 'Run Scared' Against Any Dem Rockefeller Says

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Rockefeller said Thursday night he will "run scared" against whoever the Democrats put up against him in the gubernatorial election this November.

Asked whether he thought the Democratic candidate would be New York City Mayor Robert F. Wagner, Rockefeller replied:

"If President Kennedy tells him to run, he will. However, I don't think he wants to run."

Wagner, often mentioned as a possible opponent for Rockefeller in the gubernatorial election, has steadfastly denied that he has any intentions of running.

Rockefeller announced his candidacy for reelection some time ago.

Rockefeller discussed the coming race at a news conference prior to addressing 1,640 Nassau County Republicans at a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner.

Pedals 66 Miles

To See Grandparents

BRADFORD, Pa. (AP)—For two years, young Donald Luther of Buffalo, N.Y., pleaded for permission to visit his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burns, at their home in Bradford, 66 miles away.

He finally got his chance Thursday.

Under fair skies, with temperatures reaching into the 80's, Donald, now 14, bicycled the 66 hilly miles from Buffalo to Bradford in just eight hours.

"It was a hot day," he commented. "Some of the hills were real rough and I had to walk up them."

Donald made the trip by bike, he said, because he had "an urge to accomplish something."

Red Cross Aid Told In Recent Area Blaze

Immediate relief of human suffering in an emergency is the prime purpose of Red Cross disaster service.

A recent fire in Ellenville necessitated the evacuation of 23 persons from their living quarters. Because the people could not return to their apartments, the Red Cross made emergency feeding at local restaurants available to families who lacked cooking facilities.

Put Up in Motel

Emergency quarters at a local motel were provided by the Red Cross without cost to those who took advantage of this temporary shelter while seeking a new home for themselves and their families. Heavy rains complicated the problem of providing for those left without homes as a result of the evacuation.

Mrs. Arthur Green, Ellenville Red Cross Volunteer, made the emergency arrangements the first night, Thursday, April 5. Friday morning she was joined by Norman Buehler, Red Cross Area Field Representative, Mrs. Walter K. Hubbard and Mrs. Arthur W. Foehner from the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross in Kingston. Ellenville police were helpful in providing space emergency aid activities and telephone service at the police department.

One hungry infant was fed from a new batch of formula which was steamed in a sterilizer, repaired free of charge by Carlos Segui's electrical shop. The sterilizer bubbled in the police chief's office while a home for the baby was being sought by the Red Cross disaster team.

By Friday night housing had been located for seven of the nine families. Emergency feeding was provided by local restaurants until Sunday noon. Saturday night found only one family with five children without temporary quarters.

Little Damage to Furnishings

There was little damage to household furnishings or personal possessions that required replacement as a result of the fire, except the articles damaged by smoke or water. Damaged clothing was cleaned at Red Cross expense, food lost in the evacuation was replaced, and funds for advanced rent were provided. A family that moved into a completely unfurnished house was given a new stove and refrigerator. All of this service was furnished by the Red Cross without charge to the recipients.

Normally, fires which leave less than five families homeless are not serviced as "disasters" by the Red Cross, since it is felt that the needs of a lesser number of people can be best met by the community. However, the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross stands

New Code Voted For NY Shelters

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The State Civil Defense Commission says New York is the first state in the nation to establish standards governing the construction of fallout shelters.

The commission approved Thursday regulations governing uniform space allowances, structural strength, fire safety and other standards for shelters built in the state.

The regulations, effective May 1, would supersede local building codes, Lt. Gen. F. W. Farrell, state civil defense director, said.

Shelters designed for 15 persons or less must have at least 12 square feet of room per occupant. Shelters designed for more than 15 must have 12 square feet for the first 15 persons and 10 square feet for each additional person.

Shelters built for up to 10 persons may have ceilings as low as four feet. Those for more than 10 must have ceiling heights of 5½ feet in at least 50 per cent of the shelter area. The four-foot minimum will be permitted in the other half.

THE JUNIOR COLLEGE

Ever since Sputnik, education in America has been one of the most cussed and discussed subjects on the national scene. At times there seems to be more talk than action, yet far-reaching changes are taking place—changes that began long before the Cold War.

Among them is the phenomenon called the junior college. Today there are nearly 700 of them, at least one in every state (California leads with 71). At the beginning of the century there were none.

The growth rate spurted after World War II with the influx of veterans and the new emphasis on higher education. Yet although about 900,000 students—one-fourth of all college students—now attend junior colleges, a wide area of public ignorance still exists in regard to them.

Essentially, the junior college is a school offering two years of study beyond high school. Usually it is community-supported, with no or little tuition.

Small classes, a closeness to the community, a faculty whose prime purpose is to teach rather than do research are among the other characteristics of the junior college.

Apart from this basic identity, however, the schools may vary greatly one from the other. Like regular four-year colleges or universities, some are large, some small, some excellent, some not so good.

The goals and attitudes of the students, too, are varied. For those aiming for a bachelor's degree, the junior college provides the freshman and sophomore years. For those uninterested in a full four-year education, the junior college provides a terminal two-year course of either general or specialized vocational training.

But of greatest importance to a nation whose educational system is a reflection of its democratic ideals, the junior college often is the saving of youngsters who would otherwise be squeezed out of the education race: those who lack the money or credits to meet the rising standards and costs of universities, and the late-bloomers who may lack the ambition or immediate desire.

The junior college movement has been called the most significant development in U. S. education in this century. Indeed, some educators predict that the two-year Associate of Arts degree awarded by these schools may replace the high school diploma as the basic standard of education. In the future, increasingly crowded universities may well require junior college credits for admission.

For many youths, the junior college is becoming the first choice after high school. For hundreds of thousands of others, it is a second chance at education.

JUNIOR INVESTORS

The Wall Street Journal reports that the desire to purchase stocks has now penetrated the high school classroom. A group of students, according to this report, have pooled resources under faculty guidance and jumped into the blue chip Am Tel & Tel. Jumped, that is, to the tune of one share!

But even this one share, which cost them $144, was enough to give the 35 young owners a capitalist thrill. Besides this pleasure, watching their stock on the daily quotations was a joy in itself. No doubt the value of participation was calculated several times a day by each of the junior capitalists.

There is also a practical side to all this. For as savings and investing come to play a larger role in the affairs of every day Americans, more of them become the owners of stocks. To understand the nature of stock ownership, therefore, becomes important. This is not to suggest that our children should necessarily be encouraged to learn the fine art of speculation in stocks. But many of them will some day have enough income left over to get into the market, and when they do it would be better to have had some good, practical investment experience behind them.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

HOW TO MAKE ELECTIONS HONEST

The President's Commission on Campaign Costs has issued an interesting but futile report on how to control campaign expenditures. The 1960 Campaign cost the Republican and Democratic Parties $19,900,000, which is far less than the fact because considerable amounts in any campaign are paid in cash and are not accounted for and cannot be proved.

The Commission proposes:
"Where an individual or organization is subject to taxation, we recommend that the reasonable costs of these activities be declared a deductible expense for tax purposes."

That would be a sensible proposal if groups contributed only to absolutely defined campaign funds, not to so-called educational funds, which are a device to deceive. The Commission further proposes:

"We recommend that individuals and private organizations—including corporations, labor unions, farm organizations, civic societies, and other appropriate groups—be encouraged as a matter of good citizenship to take part in and to make expenditures for bipartisan political activities (or multipartisan political activities where more than the two major parties benefit from such expenditures)."

This is nonsense. It is a renunciation of partisanship. Our political system is based upon two parties. The Communists permit only one party to exist. Partisanship is wholesome and is the only protection that a free people have against tyranny. Recently, I tried to explain to some youngsters that the reason I voted for Richard Nixon in 1960 was that I was a partisan. They did not seem to understand that at all.

The Commission also proposes a tax incentive for contributors on the ground that charitable, health, welfare, religious and educational groups are exempt. The argument is specious; however, I, like other taxpayers, am willing to take advantage of any kind of tax deduction at any time, but I do not want to contribute to the success of enemies or those who support ideas that I oppose.

The Commission wisely objects to the splintering of political organizations into many Committees, which is a current device to raise money for campaigns. However, their recommendation that the benefits be limited to political parties whose candidates for President and Vice President appeared on the ballot in 10 states is a curb upon the freedom of conscience. I have saved my conscience on some occasions by voting for Norman Thomas and I once voted for Roger Babson because both the Republican and Democratic candidates were repugnant to me. That may happen to me in the 1962 Election in New York State.

It seems to me that this Commission has dodged the central issue, which is that campaign expenses run too high; that the candidate who has the money to buy more television time, competing for slots with tooth-paste and detergents, has a better opportunity than the man who has less money. It may be that the man with less money may be more suitable.

The Kennedy-Nixon Debates in the 1960 Campaign made sense. Nixon was defeated because he was non-aggressive, defensive, unable, because of his office, to denounce or defend his President. Granted that Nixon was on a spot and that Kennedy belted him to the ropes; nevertheless, the voter had a chance to see both men in action.

Even this is not the cure. The British have it in their strict limitation of expenditures and if a nickel more is spent than the law permits, the election is null, and the candidate's manager is liable to punishment. This is a good law. They do not bother there about the contributors, who might slip a bill under the table. They go after the candidate and his manager who spends that extra money which he has a right to have but not to spend on the campaign.

This is an honest and direct method of keeping elections decent. The President's Commission on Campaign Costs wanders all over the Earth seeking impractical remedies. For instance, the report says:

"A general misconception appears to exist about the effect and intent of the provision (in the law limiting contributions). From our study of the section, its legislative history, and the applicable court decisions, it is clear to us that no distinction is intended between corporations and unions with respect to political contributions and expenditures."

There is more than one member of the Commission who must have had his tongue in his cheek when he saw that paragraph. What about educational funds? (Copyright 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The Doctor's Mailbag

Heart Condition or No?

Try Family Doctor First

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I was trained as a nurse's aide so every once in a while I take my 10-year-old daughter's pulse. Usually it is very rapid, over 80 and sometimes over 90. Even after she has rested. Sometimes, it is quite irregular.

On our charts, I remember, the line was drawn at 72 and we were told to report the pulse faster or slower. I want to take her to a heart specialist but my husband won't let me. He reads your column and I am sure I could persuade him if you said I was right.

A—Oh dear! You have put me on the hot seat. Certainly it is safer to have her examined by your doctor and get his opinion before you go to a cardiologist. And if the little girl is anything other than healthy, happy and vigorous, I'm sure both your doctor and I would agree to the need for consultation.

If she's healthy, happy and vigorous, I'd be inclined to agree with your husband. For, you see, that 72 on the charting sheet represents an AVERAGE, not necessarily the NORMAL. Indeed the range of normal may extend from 60 to 90. Children are especially apt to be in the higher ranges so your daughter's rate of 80 to 90 may be (and probably is) normal FOR HER.

The irregularity you note also may be normal since most youngsters slow down when they breathe in and speed up a bit when they exhale. That's called a sinus arrhythmia and it's a sign of health rather than disease.

Q—My wife's blood pressure is over 200 at times. Our doctor is a great friend of mine and he tells me how high her pressure is but he won't tell her. He says it will only make her more nervous and send it higher. I think she should know so she will take better care of herself. What do you think?

A—I'm inclined to agree with your doctor. Obese, middle-aged women are particularly apt to register a high tension despite the fact that they have little arterial or kidney disease of any significance. This is called essential hypertension, and other than weight reduction and reassurance, needs little medical care.

Also, since persistence of essential hypertension produces none of the dreaded complications (strokes, coronary thrombosis, visual disturbances), it is often referred to as benign hypertension.

Washington News

BY WASHINGTON STAFF Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—New Supreme Court Justice Byron "Whizzer" White is being characterized by capital wags as probably the only All-American football player who ever wanted to sit on the bench.

PRESIDENTIAL counsel Ted Sorenson, who is responsible for collecting material that goes into Kennedy speeches and messages, had a little shop talk with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon in California not long ago.

"You know," said Mr. Nixon, "there was one passage in President Kennedy's inaugural address I wish I could have used."

"What's that?" asked Sorenson.

"The part that says, 'I solemnly swear to uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States.'"

REASON FOR the mysterious suspension of X-15 flights at Edwards Air Force base, Calif., has now been explained by National Aeronautics and Space Administration. It's "due to water on the dry lake landing area."

QUEEN FARAH of Iran was greatly impressed on her Washington visit by the casualness of her meeting with the First Family.

"Like all Americans," she said, "Mrs. Kennedy is not too much with protocol."

The Queen also spoke of her 18-month-old son. "He doesn't talk much," she says, "but he can say mama and papa...in French, of course."

NEW YORK'S Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and former Republican National Committee Chairman Meade Alocrin were members of the same class at Yale, and at the Women's Republican Conference in Washington the governor let out a secret about their college days. They were in a psychology class and the professor asked how many of the students believed that women had the same intelligence quotient as men.

"Only two hands were raised," Gov. Rockefeller recalls. "One was mine and I'm sure the other must have been Meade's."

IF ROCKEFELLER's recent divorce affected his political standing, it didn't show at the Republican Women's Conference. Over 1,000 GOP women lined up to be photographed shaking his hand and he, for his part, was full of flattery for the ladies, recognizing their political power and influence in everything.

To illustrate this point, he repeated a story told by New York's Atty. Gen. Louis K. Lefkowitz. In his young days Louis was a scoutmaster and one day he lined up his troop for an inspection before going on an overnight camping trip.

In one scout's pack he spied an umbrella, and Lefkowitz began to berate the boy for bringing along such a sissy and unauthorized equipment. The boy's eyes filled with tears under this bawling out and when it was over he asked plaintively:

"Sir, don't you have a mother too?"

ROCKEFELLER confessed that women can sometimes be a trial in politics. He recounted an experience campaigning in New York's lower East Side with Sen. Jacob K. Javits.

A woman complained to them that it was impossible for her to find a decent place to live on her income.

Rockefeller and Javits went into their act, telling the woman about their wonderful GOP housing platform and urging her to vote for them so they could put it into force.

Government and Business: Their Sensitive Relationship

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—When the stock market takes a tumble costing shareholders about $5 billion in value in one day—as it did this week—and the decline is attributed to unsettling news from Washington, the sensitive relationship between governmental power and the operations of American business becomes all too evident.

One wonders if the people in the Kennedy administration from the top down realize that one-man government, without benefit of law, can really shake confidence and hold back natural expansion. For neither short-range nor long-range business planning can be carried on without some degree of certainty that such plans will not be disrupted.

Now, Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges really didn't issue any threats in his Tuesday press conference, but he tried in his own way to define the Washington situation as it relates to the price problem. What came over the news tickers in condensed form, however, was disquieting—and again largely because it is a novel thing to try to run a business nowadays and set your own prices while a threat of FBI detectives and grand jury investigations hangs over your head.

What Hodges Said

It is important to read exactly what Secretary Hodges said, for, while he certainly didn't intend to unsettle anybody, he gave a candid picture of the changed situation that confronts American business in setting prices. Here are excerpts from the recorded transcript of his news conference:

"Q. Mr. Secretary, would you think that the events have committed the government to a more active role in price and wage determination than the Administration had anticipated or desired?"

"A. You know, I think it could go the opposite way. I think that the fact that this worked—certainly with a little discussion and persuasion that this kind of thing worked could postpone—if there were to be any legislation, to postpone that, because I think this kind of thing, the way the decision was finally formulated, that that would show that there is not the same need that some people may have been saying during these critical few days of discussion."

"Q. Does that mean that you think we should have executive price control?"

"A. No, it doesn't mean that at all. I was trying to say the other, and I have said publicly twice since this steel discussion that I thought one of the worst things that could happen to this country would be for us to go into government control, the executive couldn't have any control except as authorized by the Congress."

"Q. Mr. Secretary, what I was really trying to get at was more concerned with the executive branch only. Wouldn't you say that now the executive branch, the Administration, has to decide every time there is a price increase whether it is justified and should be allowed or whether it is unjustified and the government should attempt to beat it down?"

"A. I was asked on the West Coast Thursday or Friday a repeated question five or six times from a person who had the idea that the President or the Administration was going to decide each individual case where a firm was going to raise prices. . . . I was sure the Administration, Mr. Kennedy, was not interested in getting into each settlement and each detail. What he did, what we did as a whole was to discuss and try to resolve a basic industry such as steel because that is and was a bellwether which would have affected, one way or the other would have affected, all other negotiations and the economy itself. There may be others more or less like it, but not every individual case."

"Q. Well, which are the others that are more or less like it?"

"A. I would say aluminum following on would have some relationship. I have not heard it discussed in the Administration, so I don't want to say that has been brought up."

"Q. Mr. Secretary, for how long is the steel industry precluded from raising its prices?"

"A. There is no preclusion. I gather there is no decision as to how long. They just didn't raise them at the time of this (labor) settlement because it didn't seem to make sense."

"Something New"

Now, the above statements were made by Secretary Hodges frankly and with an intention to be helpful. But many a business man will throw up his hands in despair if he tries to find out from these utterances what is going to happen to the price structure, how much interference will come from the government on prices and what—if any—interference is going to be exerted on the matter of increasing wage costs.

Life under one-man government, without benefit of law, without benefit of hearings at which all sides can be heard and economic fact can be presented, is something new. Even jaws that aches with wage-and-price control in war are a least provided a board of several persons who function in a quasi-judicial way. But the latest system, or lack of system, is a helter-skelter affair that can only produce economic anarchy. An experimenting President and an indifferent Congress must soon clarify the situation so as to prevent more declines in the markets and remove the roadblocks in the way of the capital-goods expansion which is so necessary for economic recovery.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

to support them and subsidize Max Ascoli's success in our country, or go to prison, and don't you forget it.

There are dozens, scores, hundreds of names of individuals in interlocking memberships and directorates of the letterhead political bunds that "liberals" use. They will puzzle you to absolute bafflement. That is their secret weapon.

There was a thing called The Committee for an Effective Congress. Max Ascoli and his wife gave $250 to that one. Another of its backers was Isidore Lipschutz, likewise a refugee from Europe who maintained a whole lot of names of individuals in interlocking memberships and directorates of the letterhead political bunds that "liberals" use.

They are now saying that the Constitution is the last refuge of the Red-baiter. But the First and Fifth Amendments have long been the refuge of the Red and the "liberal." We of the Extreme Right never take the First or the Fifth.

The Committee for the First Amendment, which sprang into being during the Hollywood Communist hearings of the House Committee in Washington, was not founded by extremists of the Right.

Now I remind you that in their accounts of the ordeal of General Walker before the Senate Committee recently, the New York Herald Tribune and the Times did not mention the significant names of Max Ascoli and his bi-weekly magazine, The Reporter, which is based in New York, of course. These were important omissions.

I had reason to make inquiries about Ascoli and The Reporter some years ago. Later, in Europe, by my own leg work, I observed that The Reporter had been circulated in our occupation areas and planted in libraries supported by our taxes. These libraries were supposed to give the Germans, Italians and others a fair understanding of the ideals and the homeland soul of the American people.

I cannot understand how Max Ascoli could have been adjudged an appropriate exponent of these spiritual treasures. He came here from Mussolini's Italy on a grant from the tax-free Rockefeller Foundation. He then burrowed into the tax-free, socialistic New School in New York. His marriage to his Italian wife was dissolved and he married a daughter of Julius Rosenwald, who was loaded with American mail-order money.

Ascoli had been a professor in Italy.

General Walker had mentioned Ascoli and The Reporter and all he got for that was ridicule.

Those American libraries in the occupied areas were barren of writing contrary to the Herald Tribune. The Nation and Eleanor Roosevelt. I never could determine by name just who selected the contents of those dumps. But you and I still have to pay income taxes

BABSON on BUSINESS

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON DISCUSSES IMPORTANCE OF COAL

BABSON PARK, Mass., April 27—I do not expect a nuclear war unless one starts by accident. I do expect the cold war to last for some time, during which time fallout shelters will be constantly discussed. It is not expected that such "shelters" would protect us if our city or one nearby should be bombed. But a properly constructed shelter should protect from the "fallout" accompanying nuclear war when some—not all—of our large cities would be destroyed.

Stocking Shelters

It is one thing to build a shelter; but another thing to stock it properly with food and the many other articles needed to make it livable for two or more weeks. For details, send to the Department of Defense, Office of Civil Defense, Washington 25, D.C.—or check with your local Civil Defense officials. At best, only a few of my readers will build shelters. Therefore, I wish to write this week about what the rest of us will do. Here is some good advice.

I am urging my family and friends to seriously consider how much we all owe to electricity—our lights, oil burner, refrigerator, and often our cooking and other conveniences. Yet, whether or not we have a shelter, we would have no electricity if a nuclear war should start. Furthermore, those of us who would be compelled by law to remain indoors until the federal signal allowed us to go out should have enough food and water to care for our necessary requirements.

Have Driven Well If Possible

Our first expenditure should be for a driven well, to give an independent water supply. This would need a modern double-action hand pump to pump up the water. This pump should be located in the cellar, as near as possible to the "water table" level. Our city or town supply of water may be available in quantity; but it probably would be contaminated and dangerous. Whether boiling this water would make it safe to drink will be told us by Civil Defense authorities via CONELRAD (either 640 or 1240 on your radio dial).

Until a comparatively few years ago, most homes had a coal bin and a coal-burning furnace in the cellar; also, a coal-burning stove in the kitchen. That coal bin, filled with coal each fall, was a real "safety deposit box." It could be more important than one at a local bank containing stocks, bonds, and our will.

Importance of a Filled Coal Bin

Such a coal bin, filled with coal, with a small coal furnace and small coal cookstove, should be a MUST for every family not near a gas reserve. At the first "shot" of a nuclear war, our electricity would be cut off. Therefore we should today determine how to get on without it. A bin full of the best small anthracite or cannel coal would be the answer—plus some lanterns and a barrel of kerosene. Both the coal and the kerosene are merely stored heat—which can be used to keep us warm, cook our food, boil our water, and supply us with the light which satisfied American families for over 100 years. Readers who have no coal furnace and can buy none locally may write for free catalog to Holland Furnace Co., Holland, Michigan.

We are used to buying stocks and bonds to store in our safe deposit boxes; but during the months ahead I shall discuss stocks, bonds, and coal—with a pile of "hearts of pine" wood for starting a fire with matches. It is a shame that coal has been forgotten. Someday there will be a war from which we Americans will suffer, even if it is not a nuclear war. Just as Dr. Einstein discovered atomic energy bombs, so Col. Glenn by his triple orbit of the globe showed us where the next great war will be fought—200 miles (1,000,000 feet) above our cities.

We Should Revise Our Plans

Since February 20th we have been living in a new world. Most conclusions and measurements are useless. Even the most modern missiles may be outdated. On the other hand, those close to gas wells may see a renewed demand for property. Those of us in large cities further away may not be able to depend upon gas in case of war. I shall not count upon gas or electricity in an emergency, but only upon coal. Hence I talk about stocks, bonds, and coal in my "Safe Deposit Box."

Urges Caution In Use of Power Driven Mowers

With the drone of power-driven lawn mowers about to start, Dr. E. Franklin Hall of the Ulster County Department of Health offered tips today on how to lower the number of injuries these machines inflict on adults and children.

Both power and hand-driven mowers are not completely safe in use because they can cut most things they touch besides grass, Dr. Hall said.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that 75,000 power mower accidents occur each year. More than half the injuries are to the feet and hands. About one-third involve different parts of the body when stones or pieces of metal are thrown by the mower blades. These missiles can have the impact of a .22-caliber bullet.

Since most injuries are due to carelessness or error on the part of persons using mowers, Dr. Hall advises these precautions:

1. Remove stones, sticks and other objects from the lawn.
2. Check all bolts, nuts and screws to see that they are properly tightened.
3. Add fuel before starting the engine, never while the engine is running.
4. Keep hands and feet away from mower blades when starting and mowing.
5. Learn how to stop the mower's engine quickly.
6. Children and pets should be at a safe distance from the mower, preferably inside the house.
7. Stop engine before pushing mower across gravel driveways, walks or roads.
8. Be sure of footing when mowing slopes or when grass is wet.
9. Never plug in an electric mower when it's raining.

10. The mower should always be moving away from the operator.

11. Sit-down mowers can turn over on sloping ground.

12. Disconnect the spark wire before checking or cleaning mower.

13. Mowers with crank-type starters should not be in a charged position until ready for use.

14. Keep fuel in marked, closed container in a safe place.

15. At all times, stop the engine when the mower is left unattended.

16. Scan the path in advance of the mower at all times for objects that might be thrown.

Firmness, Patience Mac's Plea to West

NEW YORK (AP)—British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan urged the West "to be firm but patient; never to yield and never to give ground; but never to take provocative action ourselves."

He says he believes that if the free world follows this policy the Russians—in "maybe one, maybe two generations, maybe more"—will be ready for a better peace than one "preserved by mutual fear."

Calling President Kennedy's decision to resume nuclear tests in the atmosphere "a tragedy," he says "the world must realize the responsibility for the tragedy is not Kennedy's. It is Khrushchev's."

Macmillan says the test resumption is tragic because "it means the nuclear arms race is again in full spate."

He says Britain and the United States "maintained a voluntary moratorium of three years, which was rudely broken by the Russians last autumn."

The British Conservative party leader discussed the present state of the world and looked into the future Thursday night in addressing 1,800 persons at the annual dinner of the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Newspaper executives and their guests joined in toasts to the health of President Kennedy and Queen Elizabeth II.

The dinner ended the city's annual press week events.

Macmillan goes to Washington today for formal discussions with President Kennedy Saturday.

The prime minister was applauded warmly several times during his dinner speech—especially when he blamed Premier Khrushchev for this country's resumption of nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

Macmillan was given a standing ovation at the end of his address.

Macmillan said the West should not abandon its efforts in any sphere "where we can find the possibility of some agreement between East and West to their mutual advantage and to that of the whole world."

Quake, Test Coincides

STOCKHOLM (AP)—A Swedish professor said today that an examination of the Stockholm Polytechnic University's seismograph showed that an earthquake occurred in the Pacific Wednesday exactly at the time of the U.S. nuclear test there.

Prof. E. Bjertmar said it probably was the first time an atomic explosion and an earthquake coincided.

NEW YORK (AP)—Steels and other industrials recovered early this afternoon as the stock market moved ahead in moderate trading.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .80 at 251.10 with industrials up 1.70, rails up .30 and utilities unchanged.

Gains of fractions to 1 or 2 points outnumbered losers among key stocks.

A second look at the news that U.S. Steel and Bethlehem had been indicted for alleged price rigging showed Wall Streeters (this involved only a small part of the firms' total business and was not a consequence of the recent crisis over the canceled $6-a-ton price boost).

At the same time, brokers said the market seemed "oversold" after two straight days of sharp decline.

Japanese Renew Protest Against U.S. Bomb Test

TOKYO (AP)—A crowd of about 2,000 screaming Japanese students tried to storm the U.S. Embassy today in protest against American nuclear testing.

Police drove them off, and about 500 staged a sit-down demonstration in front of the embassy tonight. Singing the Communist Internationale and shouting "Kennedy down with the bomb!" they squatted with their arms interlocked about 120 feet from the high wall around the embassy compound.

The police wheeled up five armored trucks and began dismantling the students. After an hour of scuffling, the police moved the students 300 yards down the street. The demonstrators conceded defeat and marched off to a downtown park for speeches and more noise-making.

Earlier the students made repeated charges from two directions at the stone and iron fence before the police beat them back in kicking, shouting, and brawling.

It was the third day of demonstrations against American nuclear testing. The leftist Zengakuren Student Federation has said it would demonstrate every day as long as the tests continue.

Several hundred officers spent most of the day receiving protests from small groups of peaceful demonstrators. U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer was away from Tokyo on a speaking tour. One group allowed to enter consisted of eight citizens of Hiroshima, target of the first 1945 American atomic bombing. The group included a woman with a child in her arms.

In London Thursday night 2,000 anti-bomb demonstrators marched in Grosvenor Square in front of the U.S. Embassy. Police moved in and arrested 192 when the marchers spilled into the street, sat down to block traffic and refused to move.

In Glasgow, Scotland, about 20 men and women succeeded in entering the U.S. consulate office and sat on the floor, singing anti-bomb songs. Police dragged them away.

Fat Zero' Says
Dems' State Boss
Of Rocky's Rule

NEW YORK (AP)—William H. McKeon, Democratic state chairman, urged that all state Democrats unite to defeat Republican Gov. Rockefeller in the November election.

In a speech Thursday night before the affiliated Young Democrats of New York, McKeon characterized Rockefeller as "a captive of the fat cats" and termed the governor's record a "fat zero."

"(Rockefeller) pulled a great Madison Avenue technique on us," McKeon said, adding: "He is the man responsible for the high tax program. We cannot afford to be fooled again by the man with the glamorous smile."

McKeon contended Rockefeller spends most of his time running for the presidential nomination.

"Gov. Rockefeller speaks as a liberal in Harlem and a conservative in Des Moines," McKeon said.

McKeon urged the Democrats to mend their intra-party differences. A solid Democratic front, he said, would mean that any Democrat nominated for governor would defeat Rockefeller.

Rockefeller, who already has announced for reelection as governor, is considered a possible GOP presidential candidate in 1964.

Strongly Recommended

"The citizens finally selected by the Executive Advisory Committee," he added, "were strongly recommended by our Up-town Economic sub-committee, and represent what we believed to be a combination of the best features of all the proposed plans."

Lewis said that a letter has been sent to Mayor Schwenk, making known the Advisory Committee's recommendations and asking him to forward these recommendations to the Common Council in time for them to take action at their May 1 meeting.

The Citizens Executive Advisory Committee for Urban Renewal is composed of chairman Lewis, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Daniel Shea, George Svirsky, John Lawson, Frank A. Reis, James Gilpatrick, and Thomas Mitchell.

Agreement to Ban War Propaganda Out: U. S., Reds

GENEVA (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin told the 17-nation disarmament conference today they could not agree on outlawing war propaganda.

Dean said the Soviet proposal for a ban on war propaganda—a side issue at the disarmament conference—would violate American constitutional freedoms of speech, press and of assembly. The two positions were so opposed as to be impossible to bridge, he said.

Zorin said Dean's position in their talks showed the United States is unwilling to reduce world tensions or "stop the military hysteria which is under way in the United States and in other countries linked with the military blocs."

Despite his outburst of shouting Thursday against the new American nuclear tests, Zorin made no further reference to them at today's plenary session of the conference.

Dean said the evil effects of war propaganda could best be overcome if the Soviet Union allowed its citizens to read foreign publications and listen to foreign broadcasts.

Zorin countered that without a ban on war propaganda, such dissemination of foreign information would only "create more favorable opportunities for the expansion of war propaganda."

Each $100 Pledge

against population within each county and a priority assigned the county according to need for additional beds.

Ulster County has been placed in second highest (b) priority. Funds are then assigned to hospitals having approved plans and the necessary local funds to embark upon a project, in order of priority. Thus, even if a county were in "A" priority but had no complete plans and ready resources to begin its construction program, the funds available for that year would pass to the next priority where everything was in readiness, and so on down until the funds earmarked for the state in a given year were exhausted.

Can Spread Payment

President Kalish has emphasized that the hospital is seeking pledges toward its building fund campaign, with payment to be spread over three or five years according to the donor's wishes.

He also noted that a few memorial opportunities remain for those wishing to meet the cost of building and equipping a room to the memory of a loved one.

The hospital plans a five-level wing to provide 60 additional adult medical and surgical beds; plus a net gain of 10 beds in a completely new and well-equipped pediatric section.

Also provided in the plans are new classrooms and facilities for the School of Nursing, and much needed additional space for the administration function of the Hospital.

Feels U.S. Should Head Off Rail Hike for 500,000

CHICAGO (AP)—A spokesman for the railroads contends the Kennedy administration should head off a wage boost for 500,000 non-operating rail workers if one is recommended next week by a presidential fact-finding board.

J. E. Wolfe, chairman of the Western Carriers Conference Committee told a news conference Thursday that consistency demands such action. He said he called the conference because of rumors the board may suggest a pay increase.

A fact-finding board appointed by President Kennedy and headed by Saul Wallen of Boston is to report to the President next Thursday. Eleven unions represent the workers involved.

If the board recommends pay boosts, Wolfe said, "the administration must step in and tell employees such a wage increase can not be made effective without destroying or partially destroying the non-inflationary policy of the administration."

"I would expect the administration to do what is necessary to avoid impairment of administration policy designed to prevent inflation," Wolfe told newsmen.

The railroad spokesman indicated he referred to non-inflationary policies that prompted the Kennedy administration to fast action in the recent uproar over steel price increases, which were announced and quickly revoked.

The 11 unions of telegraphers, clerks and others who don't actually man the trains have demanded wage boosts of 25 cents an hour and an agreement not to dismiss any employee without six months notice.

The railroads demanded a 20 per cent reduction in the pay scales of semi-skilled and unskilled workers, a hold-line freeze on wages of skilled workers, and the right to lay off employees on 24 hours notice.

Wolfe said the average hourly pay of non-operating employees was $2.47 in 1961. The unions quote the rate at $2.43.

Water Supply Is

ic gallonage when the engineer's survey is completed, in contrast to the supply permitted under the present arrangement.

It was pointed out that the total consumption at peak usage of the village and Glasco Water District was approximately 1,400,000 gallons per day. The capacity permitted may not exceed 1,800,000 due to a riparian rights suit decision with that restriction.

Brinnier & Larios said the 40 additional homes would increase the consumption by 9,600 gallons per day.

Rosenblum argued that 400,000 gallons per day was available above peak demand, and that the 40 new homes would only use 9,600 gallons.

Will Halt Construction

Rosenblum and Simmons contended that if they must wait for completion of the engineer's survey before they can hook on to the Glasco District's mains, they must halt all construction on the new homes and this will cause a hardship on the construction workers who will be laid off.

The village must maintain 55 pounds of pressure at the meter point where Glasco District connects to the Sauerbess Village main line at Barclay Heights. The pressure must be maintained in order to provide an adequate supply for the village and for fire fighting purposes. Excessive flow into the Glasco mains would tend to lower this maximum pressure required by the village.

At the special meeting of Sauerbess Village Board, prior to the water discussion, the board adopted the $207,148.50 village budget with a tax rate of $17.187, by a four to three vote. Members of the Village Board, Howard Lezette, Robert Moser and Cornelius Cox voted against adoption.

Raises Question

Lezette raised the question of expenditures in the budget which exceed the funds allocated for specific departments.

Mayor Holmes explained that this is common practice, and that surplus income funds are used to balance these accounts.

Voting for adoption were Mayor Holmes, Elton L. Johnson, Frank Short and Stanley Longendyke.

Many Governors

per cent slice across the board, but he said that this may vary from state to state.

McGowan himself gave only lukewarm support for the reorganization plan of the Guard when he appeared before a Senate Appropriations committee April 6.

He said it was the best possible plan "within the strength and budget guidelines" but that he was sorry to lose the men.

He told the senators then the "loss will be felt in every state."

It apparently hit home when the rollback plans reached the state capitals.

Among the units to be chopped out are infantry battle groups, air defense batteries armed with the Nike-Ajax missile now being replaced with a more potent weapon, anti-aircraft batteries, truck companies and engineer battalions.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

by ROGER E. SPEAR
Investment Advisor and Analyst

Goal of 25% Yearly Gain
Involves Excessive Risk

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "Last fall I instituted an investment program whereby I began placing one-half of a monthly savings of $125 in a credit union account paying about 5 per cent, and setting aside the other half for the purpose of investing in growth stocks at five- to six-month intervals. My investment objective is to buy and sell stocks so that I earn no less than 25 per cent in capital appreciation each year."—P. P.

A) I must say that you have set your sights rather high—perhaps too high, under the circumstances.

During a strong bull market, many stocks will advance 25 per cent or more in fairly short order because of the widespread enthusiasm which prevails.

However, the market often moves sideways and down, too, for extended periods of time, and struggling to earn at least 25 per cent during these periods without the benefit of a professional guidance—could easily prove financially disastrous. You would have to take chances that you'd normally steer clear of, and this type of trading seldom succeeds for very long at one stretch.

In short, I suggest that you let up a bit and simply take advantage of the best values in growth stocks which are available.

"The necessity to constantly recognize public or national interest in all our business operations is a relatively new requirement for businessmen," Watson said.

"Historically we've always been able to count on the relatively free exercise of self-interest in our society to bring out what's best for all in the end."

Previews of Next Video Season on Week's Offerings

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The television season may be approaching its official end, but it continues to show both variety and vitality.

There are items of special interest every night of the next seven, ranging from drama on a controversial subject to previews of next season's programs.

Tonight NBC's Telephone Hour folds its musical tent for a time with a program, "Till Autumn," (9:30-10:30 EST) with violinist Mischa Elman and clarinetist Benny Goodman, among others.

On Saturday night there is CBS' "The Defenders" (8:30-9:30) with a story about illegal operations, such a sensitive subject that the regular sponsors withdrew from the episode.

Bill Gives County Right to Purchase Catskill Armory

Bill has been signed by Governor Rockefeller which would permit Greene County to negotiate with the state for acquisition of the old Catskill armory on Water Street. The negotiations would take into consideration the fact that the county acquired at a cost of $20,000 a site for the new armory at South Cairo. The armory is now being completed.

Without the bill just signed the state would have been required to sell the Water Street building at public auction.

George Cobb, chairman of the Greene County Board of Supervisors, said the county is not presently committed in regard to the old armory and the move to the new armory will probably not be made until fall.

Greene County is now short of office space, the present court house being overtaxed. Many officials feel the armory would provide needed office space for county offices. However, it is not determined whether the state will be asking more than the $20,000 already invested by the county for the new armory site should Greene County wish to acquire the old armory building. Cobb said these matters would be considered at future meeting.

Protest Marchers On Bomb Tests Quiet in Dutchess

Poughkeepsie police officials said Thursday afternoon there was no disorder when about 35 persons, described as mostly Vassar College students and faculty members marched in front of the Dutchess County courthouse in protest against nuclear testing renewed by the United States.

Many of the group carried placards, some reading "Every test kills," "We Oppose both the U. S. and Soviet Tests," "Ban the bomb" — "No tests, East or West."

Pamphlets were handed out with the following notation: "In cities and towns all over the country, thousands of men, women and children are marching in silence because the World has entered upon a fearful era of ever-increasing armament. Where can such a terrifying race end?"

Kingstonian Protests

One marcher identified herself as Miss Natalie Maxwell, Kingston, a Vassar College sophomore, and co-chairman of the Vassar for Peace Committee. She was quoted as saying: "We believe that the arms race can end only in nuclear war." She added there will be a similar demonstration if Russia resumes testing.

Mrs. Robert C. Slover, 150 College Avenue, Poughkeepsie, said the demonstration was planned to protest the United States' resumption of nuclear testing. She is the wife of a Vassar College professor of philosophy.

Mrs. Slover stated the demonstration was sponsored by the following groups: Dutchess County Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, the Vassar for Peace Committee and the Dutchess County Women for Peace.

Stating that the demonstrators didn't need a permit to march, Police Chief John L. Martin said: "That is a guaran-

Next Saturday Is Designated for Village Clean-up

Saturday, May 5, has been designated as Clean Up Day for the Village of Saugerties. This is one phase of the project Operation Pride sponsored by the Saugerties Jaycees to promote pride in the village by making it a more attractive community. This part of the project will be run in conjunction with the village administration. The Village of Saugerties furnishing the trucks and drivers and the Jaycees the manpower.

Starting 11 a. m., three village trucks manned by the Jaycees will canvass the village and pick up any refuse which is placed at the curb. It should be noted that only refuse found in the yard and not garbage should be left for pick up on this day. All refuse should be at the curb and ready for pick up by 11 a. m.

Chairman Graham Barkhoff also announced that entries in the Operation Pride Contest have been very low in being submitted for judging.

The Jaycees will award a $25 bond to the person who can supply the best answer to the question—What would you do to improve the appearance of our community if given a budget of $100 and 100 man hours of labor to accomplish it? Also needed for Operation Pride is an appropriate slogan. A suggested slogan should accompany each entry so that if equally good ideas are submitted the slogan entry will be the basis for breaking a tie. The winner of this contest will be selected by three impartial judges based on entry rules.

4 Firms Indicted

Don't Pre-Judge Steel Case, Is Appeal to Public

NEW YORK (AP) — Steel industry appeals to the public not to pre-judge the case have followed a federal grand jury's indictment of the United States Steel Corp., Bethlehem Steel Co. and two other steel companies on charges of violating the antitrust laws by conspiring to fix prices and rig bids.

The appeals were made by the president of U.S. Steel and the president of one of the smaller companies.

Names Six Executives

The indictment made the same charges against five company executives and a trade association. The stock market reacted quickly to the indictment Thursday. United States Steel and Bethlehem — the nation's two largest steel producers — led the steel issues and other stocks on the market lower.

No Link to Boost

Government officials said the indictment had no connection with the steel industry controversy that started earlier this month when U.S. Steel and some other producers announced a price increase of $6 a ton. The increase, denounced by President Kennedy, was rescinded.

The alleged conspiracy concerned the sale of forged steel to the Army and the Navy, electrical companies and others.

The sales involved were estimated at $100 million a year.

Leslie B. Worthington, president of U.S. Steel, issued a statement that read in part:

"We intend to contest in the courts the charges contained in this indictment and we ask that the public withhold judgment until the case has been decided in court."

A Bethlehem spokesman said in a statement that the company "has long had a policy of strict compliance with all laws applicable to its operations, and we would be greatly concerned if any Bethlehem employees had been violating the law."

Fines, Prison Possible

In addition to the Big Two of the industry, the companies indicted were the Erie Forge & Steel Corp. of Erie, Pa., and the Midvale-Heppenstall Co., of Philadelphia. The trade association named was the Open Die Forging Institute Inc., of New York City.

The individual defendants, if convicted on the conspiracy charge, could be sentenced to a maximum one year in prison and fined $50,000 each. The corporate defendants, if convicted, could be fined $50,000 each.

The indictment charged that bids and prices were synchronized through the trade association, serving as a clearing house.

It says the conspiracy began in 1948 and continued until 1961—long before the recent price controversy erupted.

Killed in Crash

LYON MOUNTAIN, N.Y. (AP)—Arthur W. Shantie, 38, of nearby Merrill, was killed Thursday night when his automobile struck a bridge abutment and three guard rails and hurtled down a 30-foot embankment along Route 374 near this community west of Poughkeepsie. State Police said Shantie probably had fallen asleep at the wheel.

Boys Quit N. Y. Hotel Following Threat of Bomb

NEW YORK (AP) — A Negro couple and their eight children, sent here by a group of Louisiana segregationists, have moved out of their rent-free Manhattan hotel after the hotel manager received a bomb threat in the mail.

Last Saturday Morris Holm, manager of the 13-story Hotel Walcott, gave free rental on a $25-a-day apartment to Louis Boyd and his wife and children. Holm said he would allow the family to stay in the suite until they were financially able to take other lodgings.

Holm said Thursday he received a letter warning him that a bomb would be placed in the hotel because of "his hospitality" to the Negro family.

Police and the FBI searched the building but found nothing.

Boyd was hired this week by a New Jersey manufacturer at $100 a week.

The Boyds checked out of the hotel Thursday night for an unannounced destination. Holm said Boyd had found an apartment in New Jersey near his place of work.

George Singelmann, executive of the Greater New Orleans Citizens Council, which gave the Boyds bus fare and $50 food money to come to New York, commented:

"It is unbelievable that anyone in the brotherly love city of New York would threaten to bomb the hotel which is playing host to the New Orleans Negro family with eight children simply because they are Negroes."

Meanwhile the New York City Commission on Human Rights urged the federal government to intervene and discourage Southern groups from financing one-way trips for Negroes to Northern cities.

Commission Chairman Stanley H. Lowell said all migrants — white or Negro — would find "virtually insurmountable" difficulties in getting housing and jobs in Northern cities because of the general population growth in urban areas accompanied by a rising cost of living.

Fire Destroys Main Building At Rip's Retreat

The administration building at Rip's Retreat, North Lake, has been destroyed by fire. District Forest Ranger Victor Schrader said the fire apparently started inside the building.

Rip's Retreat, erected by a syndicate as a Catskill Mountain entertainment center, was acquired by New York State after it became a financial failure.

Firemen from Haines Falls and Conservation Department personnel, Rangers Dan Showers and Koral Couchman and District Supervisor E. P. Fatzinger battled the blaze but were unable to save the building. None of the other structures were burned. No estimate of the loss was given.

Finding himself not very many miles from home, the traveling salesman decided to drive home for the night. Arriving at home unexpectedly, he was horrified to find his wife in another man's arms. Without a word he packed his clothes and moved into a hotel.

The next day his father-in-law called on him in an effort to smooth things over.

Father-in-law—I'm sure my daughter has an explanation. Look here, will you wait until tomorrow before you do anything about the divorce?

Reluctantly the husband agreed. When 'tomorrow' came, the father-in-law was back beaming broadly.

Father-in-law—I knew Helen would have a good explanation. She didn't get your telegram.

There was a certain old lady who rented a furnished villa for the summer, and a large dog also went with the villa.

In the sitting room of the villa there was a comfortable armchair. The old lady liked this chair better than any other in the house. But, alas, so did the dog. Although she always made for it the first thing, she nearly always found the chair occupied by the large dog.

Being afraid of the dog, she never dared bid it harshly to get out of the chair, as she feared that it might bite her, but instead she would go to the window and call "cats." Immediately the dog would rush to the window and bark, and the old lady would slip into the vacant chair quietly.

One day the dog entered the room and found the old lady in possession of the chair. He strolled over to the window and looking out, appeared to be much excited and set up a tremendous barking.

The old lady arose and hastened to the window to see what was the matter, and the dog quietly climbed into the chair.

"As I recall, you have perfectly normal legs, but those socks certainly keep it a secret!"

Being afraid of the dog, she never dared bid it harshly to get out of the chair, as she feared that it might bite her, but instead she would go to the window and call "cats." Immediately the dog would rush to the window and bark, and the old lady would slip into the vacant chair quietly.

Make Five Trump Tricks on This

By OSWALD JACOBY

Hand five illustrates a play originally described by Ely Culbertson as the coup without a name. Subsequently, it was called the "coup en passant."

Playing at four hearts, North notes that the contract depends on either a successful diamond finesse or a ruff of his third diamond plus his ability to make five trump tricks.

He should plan on a diamond ruff, rather than a finesse and also work out a method to make five heart tricks against a 4-1 break in the suit.

In accordance with this plan, he should win the first spade and return the suit. At this point the best defense is for East to lead the king of clubs.

North should take his ace immediately and go after the diamonds by leading a diamond to the king, returning to the ace and ruffing the jack in dummy.

Now North is ready for the coup. He leads a spade from dummy. If West trumps, North discards a losing club and will have his five trump tricks. But West will probably discard. In this case North trumps small, cashes the ace of trumps, leads

Health for All

Hands Off the Aspirin

Do you dive into the aspirin bottle for every ache and pain? You may be masking the signs or disease. Pain is not an illness in itself. It is a symptom of something wrong somewhere in the body.

You can't tell what's wrong by where you have the pain. Pain is sometimes what the doctors call "referred." That simply means that when something is wrong with one part of your body, it hurts somewhere else. Hip troubles can give you a pain in your knee. An ailing heart can cause pain in a shoulder and arm. Decayed teeth can give you an earache. Pleurisy can cause abdominal or shoulder pain.

If the pain is an occasional headache or some stiff muscles from spading the lawn, it's probably okay to take a couple of aspirins and then forget about it. But if pain recurs or is persistent, stay away from the aspirin bottle and pay a visit to your doctor.

SHOKAN NEWS

Charles H. Clough of Shandaken village called on Shokan friends Tuesday. Clough, who has resided in the neighboring township several years was brought up in Vermont. He has the interesting hobby of collecting old phonographs and scarce records.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ruckert are again at their village center place following a sojourn of several months at Hollywood, Fla.

Ernest Gardner, local meter reader, and his wife reportedly have gone on a trailer trip to the South West and Mexico.

Fishing boats are arriving in considerable number for seasonal use on the Ashokan Reservoir east basin which is now nearing the normal flowline following replenishment from the west basin and the increase resulting from higher water in several feeder streams.

William J. Kelley, an assistant manager at the Ward store in Kingston, was in town Friday. He reports that the exhibit of household antiques in his department last month was viewed with a deal of interest by a great many persons.

Harry Ecker, former Mt. Tremper businessman, was a caller here recently. He has made his home for the past several years on the one-time Henry Satterlee place along the Boiceville Hill Road.

George Hauser, local reservoir department employee, has a number of spring lambs amongst his flock of sheep along Route 28 here.

The remaining buildings of the famed old Catskill Mountain House and adjoining 259 acre tract will be added to the North Lake campsite where many Ulster County families go for recreation. The historic resort hotel, known as the "summer White House" in the days when President U. S. Grant and his family used to vacation there, is one of 34 purchases made by the State Conservation Department recently, involving 7,682 acres and a money outlay of approximately $200,000.

Mrs. J. M. Martine, former West Coxsack woman who has been residing at Catskill for the past few months, called on some of her Shokan friends last Sunday. A native of the Leibhardt area, Mrs. Martine, who is well known in Greene County Rebebek Lodge circles, at one time made her home in Woodland Valley, Shandaken, where her husband had a sawmill.

Callers here last week included Kenneth Weinstein, one of Town Hurley's foremost collectors of antique firearms and military goods. He and his family have the old Ed VanSteenbergh place on the Spillway Road. Weinstein formerly was associated in business with Martin Retting who resided here and at West Hurley before going to Los Angeles to make his home.

Fred Decker, Walden, stopped here Wednesday while on his way home from a fishing trip to the upper Esopus Valley where he has a summer place near Phoenicia. He found the Esopus too high for fishing but caught a good mess of trout in one of the feeder streams up that way.

Ray Cruthers, Brodhead farmer and Onteora School trustee, with members of his family were Shokan callers Sunday. Cruthers as a small boy used to come here from the city in waterworks days, to board at the John Rainey home during the summer months.

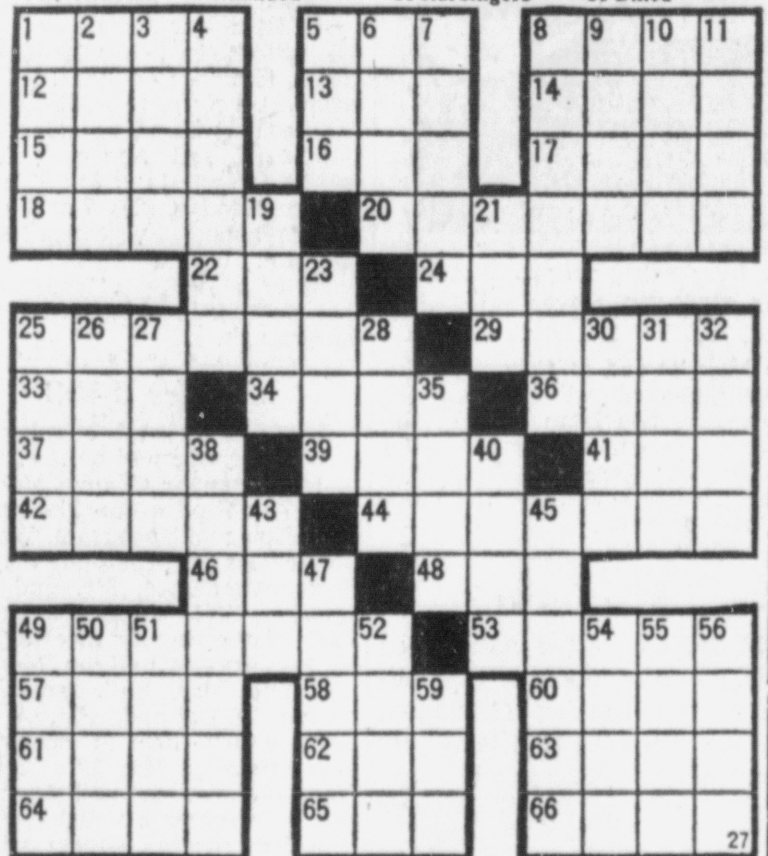

Clara Warren Terwilliger, Kingston woman whose death, April 20, was noted in The Freeman, had a number of friends in the twin villages as well as at neighboring Glenford. The old Christopher Warren farm of 76 acres, now a part of the Pitcairn holdings, was located along the Tonche Mountain Road at the Olive-Hurley town line. She married Edgar B. Terwilliger, son of Levi Terwilliger, Town of Hurley farmer and surveyor whose home also was at the town line but along the Plank Road in the village of Olive.

Kingly Opinion

An unremitting opponent of tobacco, King James I of England once wrote anonymously: "A custom loathsome to the eye, hateful to the nose, harmful to the brain, dangerous to the lungs and, in the black stinking fume thereof, nearest resembling the horrible Stygian smoke of the pit that is bottomless."

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Just received a Kingston Freeman and Journal of Tuesday, December 7, 1926. They tell how the Board of Public Works were getting ready for a heavy snow fall. They were advertising in the local paper that they were compiling a list of trucks and owners available for snow removal service. Owners of the trucks were asked to send to the board information regarding the capacity and make of the truck and also give the phone number and name of owner. That was before Kingston bought heavy snow removal equipment. It was picked up by many private trucks and by many men with shovels. Men and truck owners looked forward to that income.

In the days of hand-cranked cars, S. T. Quinn of West Union Street, was cranking his car, and it started up unexpectedly and went wild, knocking him down and passing right over him. The car then ran through Forsyth Alley, between Abel and West Union Street, and struck the grocery front of D. Wetherahm and then ended up by smashing against the Cornell engine house. The car was not badly damaged and Mr. Quinn, it said, was not seriously injured. This happened in December of 1926. I would like to know more about Forsyth Alley which leads from West Union Street and Abel.

Michael Ross who was working on the R. Lenehan boat yard on Abel Street also had a harrowing experience when a large piece of timber rolled down from a pile and endangered his life so the only thing he could do was to break a hole in the Roundout Creek ice and swim for shore. At the shore he could not climb up because of icy conditions and so had to swim to a boat tied nearby.

A number of well-known business people were making trips to Europe in 1926. Helen Stieler who conducted a popular restaurant at 244 Clinton Avenue, closed her place of business until April 1 and was getting ready to sail for Hamburg, Germany, to spend the winter with her father, Karl Dimmig at Hamburg, and also visit Leipzig and some places of interest in Italy and France.

August Peterson who ran a fish market for a number of years in the Weber building, Broadway and Abel Street and Fred Gunzelmann of 86 Hoffman Street were to sail on the Albert Ballin, Hamburg-American Line to visit England, Germany, France, Belgium, Holland and other countries in Europe. They had left orders to receive the Freeman on their tour.

There is an item in the same paper telling about George Prophe of Ulster Park lecturing on "Poetry and Poets" at Columbia University in Prof. Daniel B. Duncan's classes. "The lecture was extremely well received by the classes in which nearly all of the states in the United States are represented.

The lecture is to be repeated and several other lectures will be given by Mr. Prophe. "No doubt Mr. Prophe's schooling was started in one of those, now outdated little red school houses where they used to learn to read and write or else.

I look back to my first grade teacher in School No. 13, in Port Ewen, Miss Bush taught me to read and write so when I was transferred to School No. 3 in Kingston I went on to the next class. My grandfather had taught me the alphabet and numbers which helped some. Gussie Bush Secore, my first grade teacher in Port Ewen is cousin to "Squire" Osterhout who writes in Highland Post under name of "Squire."

Court Rules Out Shirley Booth's Bid for $17,500

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Actress Shirley Booth's privacy was not invaded when Holiday Magazine published an advertisement containing a picture of her it first had used for news purposes, the state's highest court has held.

The Court of Appeals affirmed, 5-2, Thursday an Appellate Division ruling that set aside a $17,500 award previously granted Miss Booth by a jury.

In other decisions Thursday, the court:

1. Set May 24 as the date of execution of Francis H. Bloeth for a robbery-slashing on Long Island in 1959.

2. Re-instated a 10-day suspension of the liquor license of Beverly Lanes, Inc., a Niagara Falls bowling alley. The suspension had been imposed on the ground that a 16-year-old girl drank beer purchased for her at the alley by her escort.

Ad Basis of Suit

The invasion-of-privacy suit involved a picture showing Miss Booth in water up to her neck and wearing a wide-brimmed straw hat during a vacation at a resort in Jamaica, British West Indies, in 1958. It first was used with a Holiday article about the resort.

Miss Booth contended her privacy was invaded when the same picture later was used in Holiday advertisements published in two other magazines.

A Supreme Court jury in New York City had agreed with Miss Booth and had returned the award against the Curtis Publishing Co. Inc., publisher of Holiday Magazine. The trial judge told the jury that the basic question was whether the second use of the picture constituted an "independent and separate use" for advertising purposes.

The use of legitimate news pictures without the permission of the subject is authorized by state law.

The Appellate Division reversed the jury verdict and said that the trial judge had "disregarded the purpose served in a publisher presenting to its potential customers illustrated samples of the quality and content of the publication."

Curtis Publishing had contended that use of the picture in the advertisement was "no more than a necessary and logical extension of the privileged or exempt publication of news content."

In setting the date of Bloeth's execution, the court designated the week of May 21 for his death in Sing Sing Prison's electric chair. Sentences are carried out on the Thursday night of the week specified by the court.

Bloeth, 29, confessed to the holdup-slays of three persons in eight days during the summer of 1959. He was convicted and sentenced to death for the slaying of Mrs. Irene Currier, 59, who was shot in a Westhampton diner Aug. 7, 1959.

In the decision involving the Niagara Falls bowling alley, the court reversed a ruling by the Appellate Division and re-instated a liquor license suspension brought by the State Liquor Authority.

The Appellate Division, Fourth Department, voided the suspension on the ground the bowling alleys were so far from the bar that bartenders could not see the girl drinking the beer.

The Court of Appeals, in reversing that opinion, held the management was responsible for seeing that minors did not drink liquor on the premises.

Indict Upstaters For Violation Of Mann Act

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Two men, one the operator of a resort hotel, were under indictment today on charges of transporting two women across state lines for immoral purposes.

Henry Cranston Smith, the operator of a hotel at Old Forge, and Charles Eli Lawton of Berlin, were indicted Thursday by a federal grand jury on two counts each of violating the Mann Act.

They were released in $2,500 bail each.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Dante M. Scaccia said the women, both of Richmond, Va., were transported from Fort Wayne, Ind., to Utica, N.Y., last month.

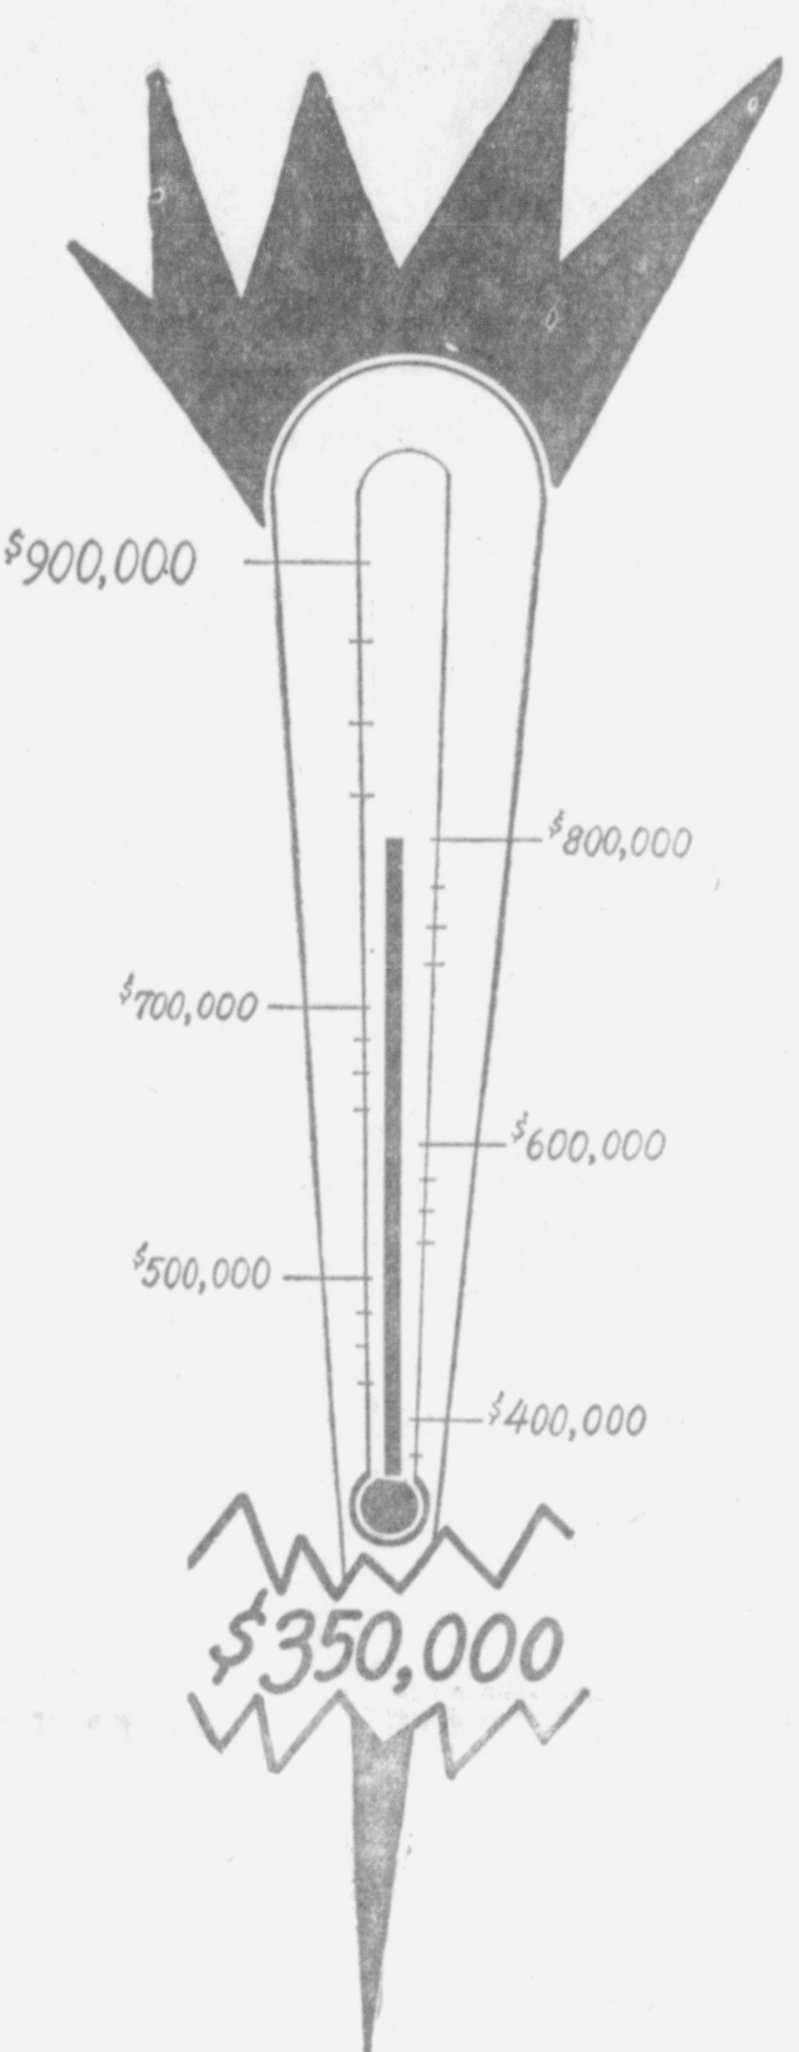

Smith is president of the Empire State Racing Association, a group of go-kart enthusiasts.

As They Wrestle With Illusion

U.S., Reds Still Look Muscle-Bound on Berlin

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — A delicate balance is being struck to explain better than the diplomats how to slice a sandwich without cutting the bread in half.

The United States and Russia, as they have for years, look a little muscle-bound as they wrestle with this optical illusion. The illusion is that Germany is not divided.

Both Split Hairs
So while Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Russian Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko split haggling hairs over the city of Berlin, it's that haunting presence of the two Germanies that is in the background.

The American government recognizes—that is, admits they're in full charge and therefore legitimate—the governments of all the Russian satellites in Europe except Communist East Germany.

They're not, of course, in full charge at all because Russia is their boss, as they'd soon find out, and some of them have, if they tried any tricks. Hungary, for instance, and some East Germans in revolt.

American recognition of these satellite regimes is no skin off the West Germans' backs. But such recognition given to Communist East Germany would be for two obvious reasons:

1. The West Germans don't want to accept the fact that World War II left Europe cut in half.
2. As long as they can pretend it isn't, they can hope that they consider only a temporary division will melt away and the two Germanies may some day be reunited.

American recognition would make the division of Germany painfully official, destroy West Germany's hope of ultimate unification, and damage, perhaps mortally, American relations with its West German ally.

Reds Seek Prestige

Yet, the Russians last year showed how real the division is by erecting a symbol to demonstrate it. They built a wall between East and West Berlin.

But the Russians want recognition for East Germany. This in its fashion would be the greatest and most permanent symbol of the division.

It would give the East German Communist government a prestige it doesn't have, and can't truly have, as long as the West pretends to treat it as an apparition.

The United States, for the reasons explained above, is so adamant in its refusal to give recognition that the Russians may well settle for something which, while it looks much less symbolically may be just as good.

This would be some agreement by the United States that the East Germans do have some control over the access routes to Berlin, which lies 110 miles inside East Germany.

This seems, judging from what Rusk said at his news conference Thursday, to be what the United States may agree to, if only to try to get the whole Russian-inspired ruckus over the question calmed down.

Against Giving Keys

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Taxpayer Peter Di Camillo wants this city to cease an age-old practice—giving visitors keys to the city.

City fathers pass out 100 token keys each year and Di Camillo told the city council he objected to a cost of $8 each.

Mayor Calvin Keller defended the tradition as "one of the finest" local customs and said the keys did not cost $8 each. He did not give the exact price.

Fire Consumes Acre

RICHBURG, N.Y. (AP) — Fifteen oil-containing tanks on a producing oilfield fed a grass fire which raced over 300 acres near this Allegany County community Thursday.

A one-acre patch of pine trees, a hardwood lot and the tanks were consumed in the blaze.

Bible Bears Witness

HONOLULU (AP) — Police got an unexpected assist from the Bible in the arrest of a man suspected of hit-and-run.

They found a page torn out of Ivory W. Collins' Bible after he was struck by a car at a Honolulu intersection. A witness gave a license number and police tracked down an address.

They found the page in the grill of a car parked near the address. Police said it matched perfectly the tear in the Good Book.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Nuclear fallout on business is likely to be delayed but its effects are to be reckoned with all the way from taxes to stock prices to bomb shelters.

Renewed testing of atomic weapons by the United States is expected to tighten world tensions. And the first result could be a chain of more peaceful co-existence.

Could Affect Wall Street

In Wall Street that could put a damper on any renewed talk about a peace scare affecting prospects of defense industries with their large role in the present economic structure. If the unexpected had happened and the United States and Soviet Union had agreed to call off testing, peace scare talk would have been in the air. And stock prices react quickly—and sometimes illogically—to peace or war scares.

In Washington more world tension will firm up prospects for more, instead of less, spending for defense in the future—with all the usual side effects on taxes, Treasury deficits and inflation possibilities. This spending could help to delay further the date of any recession from the presently expanding economy.

And with the Soviets saying they will test again, too, the psychological effect on the American public must be reckoned with.

For one thing, the fallout possibilities might revive the furor over bomb shelters. This furor is likely to have a hand in the first Soviet atomic tests on the heels of the Berlin crisis and the buildup in American defense efforts sent jangling sales of shelters spurring for a time. Many firms rushed into a seeming booming market. And the government warned citizens to be wary of possible frauds.

Way of Life Now

Then the quieting of international tensions saw the wordy battle over shelter needs and ethics slacken, and consumer interest ease up, too.

A whole new generation has known little else but international tensions and has come to look upon them as a way of life. Even so, and sharp increases in tension or in war possibilities have its effect on consumer psychology. It varies with individuals but attitudes and planning—whether to spend, go further in debt, or save—do change as fear of war increases or as hopes of peace seem even slightly brighter.

And international tension also plays a role in the relationship of government and business. As a rule of thumb, the more tension the more likely the government is to take still more of a hand in business affairs—and the better chance it has of getting congressional and public approval of plans to ride herd on business practices on prices, wages, profits and production schedules.

Hits and Misses Of Seattle Fair

By BOB THOMAS

SEATTLE, (AP) — Hits and misses of the Century 21 exposition:

As everyone expected, the hot test attractions at the Seattle world's fair are the Space Needle, the monorail and the U.S. science exhibit.

Vote Edge Big For Democrats in Pennsy Primary

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — It looks as though Pennsylvania Democrats will go into the May 15 primary election enjoying their biggest margin ever in voter registrations over Republicans.

An Associated Press survey showed Thursday that Democrats registered 2,550,160 voters in 61 of the state's 67 counties, while their rivals could muster only 2,376,878—a difference of 173,282.

The edge is 17,643 above that of last fall when the Democrats checked in with 2,841,444 voters to 2,685,505 for the GOP.

Still unaccounted for this year are Bedford, Chester, Cumberland, Lackawanna, Luzerne and Wyoming counties. But political observers on Capitol Hill feel the registration results in the other counties indicate that Democrats will show an additional net gain when the final 1963 figures are tabulated.

Last fall, there were about 533,000 voters registered in the six missing areas, with Republicans holding a slim edge of 268,394 to 264,350.

To Visit Japan

TOKYO (AP) — The Soviet Union's first astronaut, Maj. Yuri Gagarin, has accepted an invitation to visit Japan next month for a two-week stay.

Boon for Traffic

Last Monday folks were waiting 2½ hours to lunch in the revolving restaurant atop the needle. The monorail is constantly crowded and has proved a boon for relieving traffic congestion; it speeds 1.2 miles to downtown Seattle in 90 seconds.

The federal science pavilion is drawing huge throngs; lucky it can handle them. Another popular attraction is the skyride, in which buckets skim over the fair dangle from cables. Like the monorail, it is a feature of Disneyland.

What are the other hits of the fair? Many of the foreign exhibits are handsomely done, especially the tasteful and imaginative British display. The space agency's collection of orbital gadgets is fascinating, though it is stuck in a far reach of the grounds.

The international fountain is a striking feature. It looks like a huge, semi-sunk sea mine with scores of nozzles that shoot water 100 feet in ever-changing patterns.

As with all fairs, county to world's, the food circus is a major focus of attention.

What are the misses of the Seattle world's fair? The theme exhibit, the World of Century 21, must be chalked up as a near-miss. The setting is impressive — 3,500 four-foot silvery cubes suspended in the cave-like coliseum, four acres under a single roof. The show inside has its moments, but lacks the impact one would expect from a $2.7-million outlay.

Many of the industrial exhibits are handsomely mounted yawn-inducers. There is much selling of the product by the large corporations, but little effort to entertain.

Except for Barry Ashton's first-class review at the Paradise club, the live entertainment on Show Street seldom rises above the carnival level.

Kentucky Radio Station Runs on Faith and Gifts

By GEORGE HACKETT

VAN CLEVE, Ky. (AP)—Radio Station WMTC turns its back on most advertisers, operating on faith instead of money.

The nine staff members draw no salaries, yet there's always a waiting list for jobs at the tiny studio hidden away in the mountains of eastern Kentucky.

On the air 65 hours a week, WMTC reaches into four states with spiritual, educational, agricultural, musical and news programs.

"We play no rock 'n' roll, no jazz. No, do we accept cigarette or liquor commercials," says Dr. Lela G. McConnell, who came into Breathitt County in 1924 with only a few dollars in her purse.

Today, at 77, she is president of the station, a mission school, and a Bible institute, but still owns nothing of material value.

She draws no salary, has no bank account of her own. Her expenses, totaling about $50 a year, come from the Kentucky Mountain Holiness Association, which holds title to the 82 buildings making up the operation.

"How could I pray money out of the bank accounts of others," Miss McConnell asks, "if I had money of my own?"

Miss Lela, as the mountain folks call her, has an unshakable rule against asking people for money. Instead, she and her staff of 129 pray that the public will be touched by God and sent what is needed.

The method has brought in approximately $1 million, for the maintenance and expansion of the association's facilities, scattered over 300 acres of rugged terrain. The combined value of the buildings runs into six figures but that represents only the cost of material. The labor was done by the staff and students.

A $15,000 gift from a couple in Oregon led to the opening of WMTC. The call letters stand for "Win Men to Christ."

Melcher Signs Contract

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Singer-actress Doris Day's son, Terry Melcher, 20, has signed a recording contract with Columbia Records.

A deal approved Thursday by a judge gives the youth a $2,000 advance plus $50 per recording session and 4.5 per cent of gross retail sales of his records. He sings popular songs.

First Triplets for Hospital

Beacon's new Highland Hospital on Thursday reported the first triplets born in the new hospital. Two girls and a boy were born to Mrs. Malcolm Phillips, of Wappingers Falls, the wife of an IBM employee. The Phillips have another son, five years of age.

AP artist Joe Jennings lets his imagination run with this sketch of Premier Khrushchev as bewhiskered plain citizen Ivanov on a train tour of the U. S., with an American farmer as his seat mate. (AP Wirephoto Sketch)

He'd Like to Use Disguise

Correspondent Has Ideas About Nik's Visit Wish

EDITOR'S NOTE — Premier Khrushchev, in a talk with U.S. publisher Gardner Cowles, expressed the wish he might adopt a disguise to visit the United States and see everything interesting, including agriculture. He would be just a man named Ivanov, he explained. All this is not likely to happen, but AP Special Correspondent William L. Ryan has his ideas how it might turn out.

The round man with the full, flowing red beard and walrus mustaches gazed out of the window as the train sped through Beaver Junction and whistled past field, green with tall corn.

"Kukuruz," he muttered, his little blue eyes filling with tears. "Hey? You talking to me, stranger?" asked his lanky American seatmate.

"Kukuruz," Corn said the round man, nodding his bald head in the direction of the fields. "I luff corn."

"You do, hey? You a stranger in these parts?" The round man thrust out a chubby hand. "Ivanov. Ivan Sergeyevich. Simple citizen of great Soviet Union."

"Jones," said the other, taking the hand. "Simple farmer from Beaver Junction. I own all that." He waved at the corn. "What you doing in these parts Mr. Eye-Vanov?"

"Ee-Vanov," corrected the round man. "I come to United States to be able to see at peace everything interesting, to study agricultural production in United States."

"From Russia, hey? You one of these here Communists, Mr. Eye-Vanov?"

Here to Study Situation "Ee-Vanov. Da. I am, so to speak, member of party which occupies leading role in all-people's state."

"That so? Well, well! Think of that. Ever meet that old bird Krooshev? He says he's gonna bury us."

"I mean, Nikita does not mean he will bury you. He means we will be at your grave when you are buried."

"Oh," said the American, "How do we get buried, then?"

Fighting Words "Each vegetable, so to speak, has its season. Moscow was not built in one day. You do not understand progressive nature of Marxism-Leninism. Class struggle which we, of course, will help along, will dig your grave. You are capitalist. Masses, so the saying goes, will overwhelm you."

"Wait a minute, Mr. Eye-Vanov. I ain't no capitalist. And I ain't no member of any masses, either."

"If you are not capitalist, then you are one of toiling peasant masses."

"Look, Mr. Eye-Vanov. How'd you like a punch in the beak? Who you calling a peasant anyway?"

Must Please Ladies CBS Schedule Is Changed to Give Entertainment

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Recent decision of CBS to reorganize its daytime schedule by lengthening two of its soap operas and adding an afternoon version of a popular evening panel show shows pretty definitely what the mass feminine audience wants: entertainment.

When television was young, programmers enthusiastically loaded the daylight hours with "service" programs. They figured women would leap at the chance to pick up cooking hints, see the latest fashions, learn how to arrange flowers, set tables or remodel last year's suit into this year's muumuu.

The ladies, it was soon obvious from the ratings, didn't want that at all. The most expensive lesson was learned by NBC with its "Home Show," which was set up in departments, like women's magazines, and covered the whole field of woman's interest. The program was well done, won plenty of acclaim—and such small audiences it finally was canceled.

There's Waiting List NBC isn't exactly worried by the decision of an oil company to pull out of its half-sponsorship of the Huntley-Brinkley evening newscast. There is a waiting list.

The sponsor cited increasing costs as the reason for the decision. The 15-minute programs run between $7,500 and $10,000 each.

Newhart, however, is caught in an ironic situation by the decision of his sponsor to retire—not only from the Newhart show but from television itself. The decision was announced almost on the heels of a Peabody award to Newhart for the best comedy show of the year.

Best for Weekend

Recommended weekend viewing: Tonight—Telephone Hour, NBC, 9:30-10:30 (EST)—"Till Autumn" final show of the season with Misha Elman, Benny Goodman and Rhonda Fleming.

Saturday—"The Defenders," CBS, 8:30-9:30—an episode dealing with illegal operations.

Sunday—"20th Century," CBS, 6-6:30 p.m. (EDT)—"The Creative Thirties," a look at the writing and art of the depression years; "60 hours to the moon," ABC, 7:30-8:30—a preview of a manned lunar shot, with commentary by experts including Astronaut John H. Glenn; "The World's Greatest Robbery."

Miss Judith Dunbar, John Berthiaume Are Wed at St. Peter's Church Easter Sunday

MR. AND MRS. JOHN BERTHIAUME

(Photo Workshop photo)

Exchanging nuptial vows 2 p. m. Easter Sunday, April 22, at St. Peter's Church were Miss Judith Dunbar and John Berthiaume. The Rev. John Murray, assistant pastor, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Dunbar of 134 Hunter Street. Mr. Berthiaume is the son of Mrs. Roland Berthiaume.

Gowned in rose point lace, the bride carried a prayer book with a white orchid and cascades and showers. Her gown was styled with a fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves and a scalloped neckline. The bouffant skirt of organza, in petal style, was floor length. She wore a crown of tulle petals which secured the wide English illusion veil.

Miss Rosemarie Dunbar was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Donna Dunbar, sister of the bride, Sandra Wisneski and Linda Lambiase. They wore gowns of Nile green organza with an all-over embroidery of deeper toned green leaves and buds. The gowns were styled with fitted bodices, abbreviated sleeves and scooped necklines. The deep hemmed skirts were of ballerina length. The honor attendant wore a matching crown and the bridesmaids were matching tulle veils with leaf appliques. They carried nosegays of green carnations.

Norman Berthiaume was best man for his brother. Ushers were Anthony Clausi and Clifford Dunbar, uncles of the bride and Bud Berthiaume, brother of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 150 guests was held at the Moose Lodge.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to Canada, the couple will make their home at 10 Var Buren Street, this city.

The bride, a 1961 graduate of Kingston High School, is employed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company Hall of Records.

Mr. Berthiaume is employed by DeLaval Separator Company, Poughkeepsie. He is a graduate of Springfield, Mass. schools.

Hospital Auxiliary State Meeting Is Scheduled at Troy

Saint Mary's Hospital of Troy, will be host to a group of women representing 27 hospital auxiliaries from Northeastern New York State on May 8.

The program is to be sponsored by the Conference on Hospital Auxiliaries of Northeastern New York under the auspices of the Hospital Association of New York State. It will be an all-day study session using a technique developed by the United States Army and adopted by the American Hospital Association called the "Command Post Exercise" or "CPX."

The hospital auxiliary leaders who attend will form a hypothetical auxiliary and work to solve the problems which will confront that auxiliary.

This practice in making executive decisions and in problem solving within the framework of the organized auxiliary has proven to be of value to women in auxiliary work.

The program was devised by Miss Patricia Sussman of the American Hospital Association and she will come from Chicago to direct the Conference.

National Convention of Women Voters Set Next Week; Three From Area Leagues to Go

Some 1,500 members of the League of Women Voters of the United States are expected to attend its 25th national convention in Minneapolis, Minn., April 30 to May 4. Delegates from this area are Mrs. Morton Kamen, Kingston League; Mrs. Gerow Smiley, New Paltz League and Miss Florence Hubbard, Woodstock League.

Guest speakers at the convention will include Walt Whitman Rostow, counselor and chairman of the Policy Planning Council of the Department of State, who will speak on the President's proposal for liberalization of U. S. trade policy; George Roney, a leading exponent of the growing practice among business firms of encouraging more active interest in public affairs, who will speak on the citizen's responsibility to his government; Robert W. Sarnoff, chairman of board of the National Broadcasting Company; and Peter H. Odegard, professor of political science, author and lecturer on government and politics.

The main business of the convention is to adopt a national program for two years, elect officers and directors for a two-year term, and adopt a budget for one year. Traditionally, the national program adopted consists of two categories: Current Agenda, one or more governmental issues chosen by the convention for concerted action, and Continuing Responsibilities, positions on national issues to which the League has given sustained attention and on which it may continue to act.

The Proposed Program submitted to members in February includes two subjects for the Current Agenda: United Nations; Support of the UN with evaluation of means to strengthen it under present-day conditions.

Foreign Economic Policy: Support of U. S. policies to expand opportunities for international and regional economic cooperation.

Six Continuing Responsibilities are proposed. Four express support of water-resources development; modification of federal loyalty-security programs; self-government for the District of Columbia; measures granting the President authority to veto items in appropriation bills. Two express opposition to constitutional limitation on tax rates; constitutional changes that would limit existing powers of the Executive and Congress over foreign relations.

At national convention as the roll of states is called a delegate from each state League answers with that state's pledge to the national budget. This budget is met almost entirely from funds provided by local leagues who raise their money through dues and contributions from the community.

This year the League of Women Voters of the United States will receive two awards at the convention; one from American Motors for work in the field of the development of water resources, and one from

The scholarship will be awarded on the basis of scholastic ability and evidence of leadership qualities to a local student who is scheduled to graduate with an Associate Degree from any of the two-year community colleges in county in the utility's service area. The award was established to assist the student in any of 13 courses of study leading to a baccalaureate degree at an accredited college.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Parents Err in Shifting Load of Woe to Children

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
During a period of psychoanalytic treatment a young man became aware that his casual affairs with women represented a deep fear of commitment to love and marriage.

One day, in a state of intense anxiety, he brought his doctor a dream. As he recounted it, it blasted free a memory, a remembrance of himself at six years of age, the night his father left home. Awakening him from sleep, his mother, lost in misery, her face swollen with tears had seized him in her arms and sobbed:

"Daddy has left us. Oh Peter, he doesn't love me any more. Now we are all alone. Now this poor mother bird is all alone in the nest to look after her baby birds by herself. Oh Peter, how can I go on living?"

Recovering this memory, the young man whispered:

"I felt sick with pity for her. I was so sorry for her that I wanted to run away. She frightened me. How could I make her want to go on living? I was 6 years old. How could I take the responsibility for her happiness?"

Breaking off in the sudden flash of connection that is the reward of psychoanalysis, he cried out: "Oh God, has this been my fear of marriage? Have I been afraid of failing another woman as I knew I was failing my mother that night?"

Sometimes later, as marriage had ceased to represent commitment to impossible responsibility, he was able to become a husband.

Maybe his experience will be helpful to a reader who writes, "After 12 years of marriage my husband has asked me for a divorce. I have not yet told the children. But I think that my 8-year-old boy suspects it. He is always coming up to me and asking me if I feel all right."

Perhaps you could say, "No, I'm not very happy. Daddy and I are not getting along together any more. So my unhappiness has nothing to do with you. It's mine, dear—and I can take care of it myself."

This is a brave answer, taking as it does the responsibility for our hurt and for our recovery from it.

Sometimes parents in your position aren't up to it. Like the patient's mother of this column, they ask their little boys and girls to assuage the pain for which the children are not responsible. In their loneliness they forget that the children possess neither the wisdom nor strength to give them the comfort they need. Blinded by that need, they are also blinded to the possibility that their appeals for help are arousing such a passion of helplessness in their children that the sense of helplessness may remain with them forever, a continuing, unsuspected and destructive despair of their ability to ever deliver sufficient and satisfying love to another person.

To ask parents for love when they have just been deprived of love themselves always seems cruel to me.

Yet not to ask it of you may be still more cruel. You have years yet to live as a mother if not as a wife. You don't want that boy of yours to grow up believing that his love for woman is deficient.

OBLIGATION TO GIRL HE INVITED

Q—I need your help with a problem I am faced with. I am 17 years old and up until a month ago I saw a good deal of one girl—nothing serious, just good friends. Recently I met another girl who I like very much and see very little of the first girl, although we are still friends. Just before I met this second girl I asked the first one to go with me to my Senior Prom and she accepted. I would like to know if I am still obligated to take her or may I ask the second girl to go with me instead?

A—Unless the first girl herself tells you that she has decided not to go to the Prom with you, you are obligated to take her. You can explain to the second girl that you asked Mary to go to the Prom with you before you met her and that you cannot possibly break the engagement.

Dinner Guests Tipped Her Maid

Q—Recently I gave a large dinner party at my house and later was told by my maid that several of the guests tipped her. I never heard of this being done before and was quite put out with her for having accepted these tips as I pay her well for her services. Wasn't this most irregular?

A—in some European countries it is customary for guests to tip their hostess's butler or maid on leaving her house after a meal, but here in America tips are given only by house guests who have stayed overnight or longer.

Writing 'Personal' on an Envelope

Q—When sending a personal letter to a business executive addressed to his office, would it be proper to write the word "personal" on the envelope so that his secretary will not open it?

A—Yes, entirely proper on a letter to his office, but never on one addressed to his house.

How to End the Hassle Over the Annual Vacation

Memo to the man of the house:
Tired of the yearly hassle over how the family is going to spend your two-weeks vacation?

If so, you might want to consider a plan worked out by a Harvard professor last year.

He told his family he was going to take them on a mystery trip—and nobody but the professor knew when the family was to take off or where they were going.

From all reports, the professor's family not only was completely surprised by the itinerary he worked out but also delighted with the trip.

From the point of view of the man of the house a mystery trip—which he plans himself—would seem to have quite a few advantages:

Hudson High Defeats Saugerties Club, 4-2 and inning, Hudson High remained ahead the rest of the way to beat Saugerties, 4-2, yesterday at the SHS diamond.

Lefty Tom Tiano, a senior, went the distance for the visitors. He allowed only four hits. Jim Curley was the tough luck loser for the Sawyers. Aside from the second inning, Curley pitched good ball even though he was in constant trouble.

An error, wild pitch, base on balls, two singles and a double gave the visitors their three runs in the second frame.

The Sawyers tallied in the fifth on a walk to Bob McCaig. Ron May's single and an overthrow. They added one in the seventh when John Crispino reached second on an error, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on John Haun's sacrifice fly.

Saugerties, now 4-3 for the season, will play at Windham today and will host Our Lady of Lourdes of Poughkeepsie on Monday.

Houston Has Fair Record in 1st Year

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It is becoming increasingly evident that the embryo Houston Colts have corralled a better team than the floundering outfit representing New York in the National League.

The younger and more energetic Colts have been galloping at a leisurely pace, winning six and tying one of their 13 games. No so with the Mets. Eleven defeats in 12 games have revealed Casey Stengel's crew to be just what it is—not much of a team.

The Mets are a sadly conceived aggregation of tired castoffs who can't play any more, and unproven youngsters who can't play at all.

The pitching has been horrible, the fielding wretched and the hitting spotty. To say the least, Infielders Gil Hodges, Hobie Landrith, Charlie Neal and Elio Chacon haven't helped.

Although insisting it is too early to become panicky, club president George Weiss is making adjustments.

The most notable of his new acquisitions appears to be Sammy Taylor, a 29-year-old left-handed hitting catcher, acquired from the Cubs Thursday in exchange for outfielder Bobby Gen Smith. The Mets also acquired catcher Harry Chitt, purchased from Cleveland, and 34-year-old pitcher Dave Hillman, bought from the Cincinnati Reds.

To make room, veteran relief pitcher Clem Labine and catcher Joe Ginsberg were dropped.

Springfield Wins Calder Trophy

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—The Springfield Indians, probably the most potent American Hockey League team ever assembled, today enjoyed the fruits of their record third straight Calder Cup victory.

The "overtime kids" did it again Thursday night, edging Buffalo 3-2 on a 25-foot blast by Jimmy Anderson in extra play. The sizzling slap shot wrapped up the best-of-seven finals 4-1 and nullified the 52-save heroics by Buffalo goalie Denis De Jorj.

No other team in AHL annals ever has won three straight playoff titles.

Springfield needed six games to turn back Cleveland in the semifinals. Of its 11 playoff games, Springfield went to overtime in six.

Springfield goalie Marcel Paille made 14 stops Thursday night as the Indians twice rallied to wipe out Buffalo leads and force the overtime. Bill Sweeney matched Wayne Hicks' goal in the second period. Bruce Cline equalized Barry Cullen's in the third.

Anderson's goal was his seventh in the playoffs.

$424,396 in Tickets Are Still Uncashed
ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Winning tickets worth a total of $424,396 at New York State race tracks went uncashed last year.

The State Tax Department reported Thursday that the total was $16,519 more than the 1960 figure.

The money went into the state treasury, the department said.

ALL-EVENTS CHAMPS — Jones Dairy of Kingston captured first place in the all-events team competition at the 59th American Bowling Congress tournament, which ended last night in Des Moines, Iowa. The local hotshots scored 9155 and won the huge Frank Pasdeloup Trophy for their feat. Squad members are, front

Buc Farm Club On Hot Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If you think the Pittsburgh Pirates have been the scourge of the National League so far, consider what their International League farmhands, the Columbus Jets, have been doing to the Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Jets exploded for 14 hits against four Leaf hurlers in a 14-2 victory Thursday night. That made 26 runs and 30 hits for Columbus in two days against Chuck Dressen's beleaguered Toronto staff.

For a team which had a .248 batting average en route to the IL crown last year, the Jets have been flexing unusually large muscles. Meanwhile, Dressen, who's making his managerial comeback with the Leafs, must be wondering if there isn't an easier way to make a comeback.

Shortstop Jerry Buckner's two-run homer in the 10th inning made Atlanta's debut in the IL a happy one as the Crackers nipped Rochester, 7-5. Roy Vickery, Atlanta's third pitcher, retired Rochester in order in the ninth and 10th to pick up his first victory.

Babe Birner fired a three-hitter and left fielder Jerry Reimer had a perfect night with 4-for-4 as Buffalo ripped Richmond, 12-2. The Bisons knocked out Richmond starter Al Downing with four runs in the first inning and continued the barrage against Jim Bronstad, Dick Drummond and Paul Erickson.

Jacksonville's 7-1 victory over Syracuse was achieved on just six hits by the Suns. Ken Lehman got help from Art Kay in the eighth as Jacksonville handed Syracuse its second straight loss.

Kentucky Derby Hopefuls In Tuneups on Saturday

By ORLO ROBERTSON

Associated Press Sports Writer

A trio of 3-year-olds who figure big in pre-Kentucky Derby calculations and Carry Back, winner of America's glimmer race last year but still seeking his first major victory of 1962, headline the chief attractions on the national horse racing program Saturday.

Derby favorite Sir Gaylord, the California Derby winner Doc Jockey and Sir Ribot are scheduled to get their final prep for the May 5 running of the $125,000-added Derby in a 7-furlong race worth a mere $10,000. It'll be raced, along with the $15,000 Oaks Prep for 3-year-old fillies, at Churchill Downs, where a week from Saturday upwards of 100,000 people will gather for the Derby.

Carry Back, whose come-from-behind triumphs in the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and other major races last year were something to behold, goes in the 1 1/4 miles of the $75,000-added Grey Lag handicap at Aqueduct.

With Manuel Yeaza in the saddle as part of top weight of 125 pounds, Mrs. Katherine Price's hard-hitting colt will meet such old-time rivals as Leonard P. Sasso's Globemaster and George D. Widener's Yorktown.

A victory in the Grey Lag would put Carry Back within striking distance of the million dollar mark in money earnings.

Mrs. Moddy Jolley's Ridan, who figures to be Sir Gaylord's chief opposition in the Derby, came up with an eye-raising triumph in the $33,200 Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland Thursday.

With Yeaza aboard, Ridan tore off the 1 1/4 miles in 1:47 3/5 and then finished out the Derby distance of 1 1/4 miles in 2:01. The Blue Grass time was one-fifth second off the track record and the 1 1/4 mile-clocking compared with the Derby record of 2:01 2/5 set by Whirlaway in 1941. Ridan beat Roman Line third. Crimson Satan, 1961 2-year-old champion, challenged in the stretch and finished fifth back of Black Beard.

Patton, Manley Near Showdown

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C., and Hobart Manley of Savannah, Ga., a couple of lumberman-golfers who engaged in a memorable battle 11 years ago, were one step away from another North and South Amateur Golf Tournament showdown today.

Each was confronted by a determined rival in today's 18-hole semifinals. Patton took on Dr. Edward Updegraff, jut-jawed urologist from Tucson, Ariz. Manley, who is 35, met Dale Morey, who moved from Indiana to Patton's hometown a few years ago because of business reasons.

9155 Total Earns Locals Championship

Jones Dairy of Kingston is the official team all-events champion of the 1962 American Bowling Congress tournament.

The local keglers totaled 9155 to grab off this coveted ABC championship. The team receives the Frank P. Pasdeloup trophy and its members will be awarded championship eagles and will also receive individual trophies.

Jones appeared at the 59th annual tournament, held this year in Des Moines, Iowa, back on March 23-24. The club rolled a 3076 series, including an 1177 game and finished in fifth place in the regular division standings, winning $1200.

Third Best Game

The 1177 was the best team single game of the 69-day meet and that's worth another $75. Only two other teams in the history of the tournament have bettered the 1177 single.

Team members and their all-events totals that helped the club win the crown are Buster Ferraro (1886), Chris Gallo (1869), John Ferraro Jr. (1830), Larry Petersen (1810) and Angie Fondino (1760).

Buster Ferraro and Petersen finished in sixth place in the regular doubles standings with a 1315.

Team members hit 3076 in team play, 3124 in the doubles and 2955 in the singles. Setting records in the Classic Division of the tournament were Jack Winters of Philadelphia, 2147 in the all-events; Bob Poole, Pueblo, Colo., 759 in the singles and Dick Allison and Dick Hoover, St. Louis, 1431 in the doubles.

Titles in the regular division went to Andrew Renaldi, Youngstown, Ohio, 720 in the singles; John Gribbin and Gary Madison, Riverside, Calif., 1376 in doubles and Billy Young, Tulsa, Oklahoma, 2015 in all-events.

Two Share First In Texas Tourney

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A couple of fellows who haven't been winning much lately—Bill Collins and Bob Shave Jr.—led the $30,000 Texas Open today but the ominous shadow of Arnold Palmer was there to give them the jitters.

Shave, a 25-year-old from Wiloughby, Ohio, and Collins, a veteran who was big winner in 1960 but hasn't been doing much since, shot five-under-par 66's Thursday to take the first round lead. Palmer had a 67 and produced the most news because of it.

Palmer, the leading money-winner and seeking his third straight Texas Open title, was able to shake off some tree trouble and still stay in a typically menacing position. Palmer's tee shot went into the woods on the tenth hole. He hit two trees trying to come out, but he never let it ruffle him and, chipped up within a foot and a half of the hole and sank his putt for a bogey.

Eddie Kreuscher, Clayton Whitted and Ken Freer were double winners yesterday as the New Paltz Central track squad overpowered visiting Pearl River, 85-28.

Another Aaron in Spotlight; Lary Has an Inflamed Elbow

Brother Tommie Has a Big Day In Braves Win

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
Imagine a king-size Hank Aaron—that's younger brother Tommie. While Hammerin' Hank continued his efforts to shake a slump, Tommie drilled a single, triple and homer, drove in four runs and scored three himself in a standout one-man show that led Milwaukee to a 10-4 triumph over Philadelphia Thursday.

It gave Tommie, 22, a 6-for-17 batting record and a .333 average in his bid to grab a regular berth alongside Hank, 28, bogged down at .224 with 11 hits in 49 at-bats. Hank was 1-for-3 against the Phils.

The Davis Boys
Willie and Tommy Davis—no relation—each stroked three hits in the Los Angeles Dodgers' 12-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs. St. Louis' Bob Gibson lost his no-hitter in the eighth inning but won with a two-hitter as the Cards edged Houston 3-2 in the only other game scheduled.

The Braves put it out of reach in the fourth inning, striking for four runs—three on Tommy Aaron's homer. That gave Bob Hendley (2-1) all the working room he needed, although Hank Fischer came on to finish up when Hendley tired in the eighth. Phil's starter Jack Hamilton (1-2) was the loser.

Willie Davis hit consecutive homers in the sixth and seventh innings and got home run support from Frank Howard and Daryl Spencer as the Dodgers blasted Cubs' starter Dick Ellsworth (2-1) and three successors for 14 hits. Tommy Davis had a single, double and triple. Ron Perranoski (1-0) picked up the victory in relief.

No Hitter Snapped
Gibson had his no-hitter broken when Roman Mejias hit the first pitch in the eighth inning for a homer. One out later, Al Heist singled for the only other hit off the Cardinal right-hander, who had lost in his only previous decision this year. Gibson had allowed a run in the second when Jim Pendleton walked, moved to third on two infield outs and scored on a wild pitch.

The Cardinals, meanwhile, got single runs off Ken Johnson (0-3) in the fourth and seventh, then scored what turned out to be the winner in the eighth when Stan Musial singled in Curt Flood.

Two Full Squads Slated to Roll On Sunday Shift

Two squads of Poughkeepsie bowlers, a couple of high shooting doubles teams representing Newburgh and the appearance of Marion Sanford of Saugerties will highlight weekend action as the State Women's Bowling tournament resumes after the Easter hiatus.

The Bridge City squads will roll on the final shifts of Sunday's schedule, at 4:30 p. m. and at 7 p. m. at the Bowlero. Among the Class A squads from Poughkeepsie are Mardi-Bob Inc., captained by Edie Baird, the all-events winner of that city association tournament last year, and the Palm Grill five, captained by Alberta Hegeman.

Phyllis Lenardi of Newburgh and Rosemary Scall of Poughkeepsie and Newburgh are scheduled to roll in the doubles and singles event on the 5 p. m. squad Sunday at the Bowlero.

Miss Lenardi is a former city champion in Newburgh and has been a consistently good bowler over the years. Miss Scall is a Poughkeepsie resident but she competes in the top Hill City league. She has hit several 600s this season. Miss Lenardi and Miss Scall will roll their doubles on Lanes 15 and 16.

Another top doubles pair scheduled to roll Sunday at the same time are Bert Bates and Helen Paden of Newburgh. They will be on Lanes 17 and 18.

On Lanes 25-26

Mrs. Sanford, the top female kegger in Saugerties, will roll on the 5 o'clock singles-doubles squad on Sunday. She will team with Joan Huber and they are slated to roll on Lanes 25 and 26. Mrs. Sanford recently hit her first 600 series in Kingston and has had several in Saugerties.

Weekend activity will begin at 7 o'clock Friday night and Class A teams will be aiming for the 2808 series, capped two weeks ago by Pasquale's 840 Rest of New York.

The top doubles score in Class A is 1135 by J. Healey and R. Hunter of Albany and the high single in Class A is the record shattering 679, slammed by Barbara Korhas of Syracuse. Her 1770 in the all-events also leads that department.

Three Canadians

Apprehended

For Theft of Car

Three teenagers from Ottawa,

Canada, charged with the theft of a station wagon from Middle-hope were apprehended here last night and turned over to state police.

They gave their names, police said, as John Frederick Swain,

17, of Pleasant Park Row, Edward Hayden, 17, 970 Bakerville

Drive, and Lawrence Friend, 17, of 28 Gilmore Street.

A police report at 2:20 a. m.

said a routine check of automobiles resulted in the arrest of the trio on Broadway near East

Chester Street by Officers George

Barringer and Thomas Coffey.

They were charged with grand larceny.

The station wagon, police said, is owned by the Allstate Equipment Co. Route 17, Roscoe.

The three were first turned over to state police at Highland and transported later to Middle-hope. They were said to be on their way back to Canada from

New York when they were apprehended here.

Carpenter at Home

LANGLEY AFB, Va. (AP)—Lt.

Cmdr. Malcolm S. Carpenter is back at home with about three weeks remaining before he is scheduled to ride a Mercury Atlas rocket into orbit.

Carpenter will go to Chapel Hill,

N.C., shortly for training in stellar navigation before his trip to

Cape Canaveral for the shoot, scheduled for May.

Forest, brush and grass fires raced across thousands of acres in the Hudson Valley sector of the state Thursday, and burning leaves set fire to a frame residence in Beacon, causing total destruction to the house.

Fire officials throughout this area repeated warnings of prosecution in the courts of any violators of the ban on burning permits until rain eliminates the hazard which has existed in many areas since last Saturday.

More than 100 firemen and forest rangers battled a forest fire that continued to burn on

Bald Eagle Mountain south of Beacon.

Beacon police said fire destroyed the home of Mr. and

Mrs. Patrick Prisco, 114 Wilson

Avenue, Beacon, yesterday afternoon. Police said their investigation revealed that leaves had been burned yesterday morning and the flames apparently ignited the house.

The Ulster County Fire Control Center reported grass or brush fires were extinguished yesterday in the following areas:

West Camp, Hurley, Ellenville,

Milton, Tilton, Spring Lake,

Cragmoor, and Centerville.

New Paltz firemen were called out to extinguish a dump fire.

Ulster Hose Co. 5 also quelled a grass fire.

Centerville Fire Company volunteers in the Town of Saugerties responded at 9:05 p. m. to a grass fire at Pine Grove. No damage was reported.

Both trucks of Malden-West

Camp Fire Company responded at 1:55 p. m. to a brush fire near the Hartman home at West

Camp.

The only alarm in the Village of Saugerties Thursday was to the home of Jerry P. Russell at 20 Second Street where a back flash was reported in an oil burner. The alarm was at 11:15

a. m.

The Associated Press reported that fires continued to menace

New York State's dry woodlands

today and foresters were concerned that the situation might become more serious because of the slim chance of rain.

A Conservation Department spokesman said "it can get a lot worse if the wet weather doesn't come." He described the condition of the forests as "worse than last year and below normal."

Hundreds of fires have destroyed an estimated 5,000 acres of timber in the state since Saturday, the department said Thursday.

The spokesman described

Thursday, when about 20 new fires were reported, as a "rather quiet day." All the fires were reported out or under control by late yesterday.

One of the most serious fires

Thursday was in southern Mad-
